THOUSANDS SEE FIRST CITY TREE

Community Tree Idea Adopted By Newark Pleases All

MUSIC WAS A FEATURE

Buckeye Band and Chorus of Many Voices Render "Holy Night" and Other Appropriate Christmas Music.

Several thousand holiday shoppers and celebrators viewed Newark's first Municipal Christmas tree on Christmas eve, and listened to the excellent program with infinite delight. Everywhere expressions of pleasure and surprise were voiced by the large audience that had assembled, which should assure the repetition of the idea in succeeding years.

The success of the affair far exceeded the hopes of the members of the committee, who are to be congratulated for their capable management. Every available position of vantage was occupied long before 7 o'clock. Both the west and north steps of the court house were packed with people, while the entire north park was thronged. Also a large number enjoyed the exercises from the sidewalks across the street, and the windows of the buildings on the north side were filled with interested faces

At 7:10 everything was in readiness and Mayor F. M. Swartz pulled the switch which transformed the large Christmas tree into a pyramid of brilliantly, glistening electric lights of green, blue, red and white. The effect produced was marvelous, and surprise and delight were expressed by the onlookers. The tree was decorated in true Christmas style and answered every description of the beautifully decorated trees that appear in the parlors of men o wealth. The large "Star of Bethlehem," which was placed near the top of the tree, but somewhat to the westward, so that it would in no way enhance the beauty of the tree, shone in twinkling brightness, synonymous of the star, which led the three wise men, two thousand years ago.

Immediately surrounding the tree, was gathered a large circle of the younger generation, who surged as near to the tree as possible.

After Mayor Swartz had set the tree aglow with the 300 incandescent lights, the Buckeye Band played several selections. The band was ably assisted by the Trinity choir, which sang several numbers, accompanied by the band.

About five hundred small paper sheets were passed among the assemblage on which were printed the words "Silent Night" and "Joy to the World." When the band struck up "Onward Christian Soldiers," there was a general response by most of those present which was very pleasing and displayed the true Christmas religious spirit. The Trinity church choir sang well, but the singers were so situated that they could not be heard very well, being at the base of the court house steps, beneath the band. The program was concluded about eight o'clock by a selection by the band.

The idea of municipal Christmas trees was adopted by forty-seven of the most progressive cities in the United States this year, and is receiving enthusiastic comment everywhere. All classes of society are brought together by this plan; the poor man rubs elbows with his wealthy employer, in the celebration of the most eventful season of the year.

The celebration will be continued throughout the holiday season at 7:00 o'clock each evening unless the inclemency of the weather interferes, as was the case Thursday evening, the weather being such that the program could not be rendered.

A similar program was rendered in Columbus, the program being at 5:30, at which time Major Karb switched on the lights, which illuminated a large spruce, following the switching of the lights, the large assemblage was addressed by the mayor, who made a very interesting speech on ideas relating to Christmas.

In New York a large seventy-five foot evergreen tree had been erected for the occasion, crowned with a twenty-five foot "star of Bethlehem." Several speeches were delivered by men in active business life and music was produced by a large choir and orchestra suitable to Yuletide. New York originated the idea last year, when the affair received a great many favorable commendations.

Of the fund subscribed for the Christmas tree $124.70 was left over. This surplus was divided among the Salvation Army, the Juvenile Aid Society, and Truant Officer Frank Handel to be expended for purchases to be distributed among the needy poor of the city.

The Juvenile Aid society received $30, of which $15 has been expended. This fifteen dollars was spent for ten baskets which were distributed among ten families reported to be in a needy condition. The remaining $15 will be expended for clothing for children who are in need during the next few days.

Mr. Handel distributed 12 baskets of groceries and has $16 left. The surplus will be expended for clothing for children.

As the Salvation Army was conceded to have the larger number of families to care for the remaining sum, $55.70, was given to them. This helped them to fill and distribute 150 baskets with food and liberally supplied with oranges that they might have a Christmas appearance.

MESSRS. WEIANT ENTERTAIN.

A very large and beautifully trimmed and lighted Christmas tree was erected in the packing department of the Weiant vegetable greenhouse Christmas night. At a given signal the lights all over the house were extinguished, save those burning on the tree, and the employes were admitted to the room. After the men had circled the tree and had sung a number of Italian Christmas songs, Santa Claus himself appeared and distributed presents to all, thirty-five in number. Then followed an hour of festivity in which the Italians indulged in many of their quaint dances and native songs, accompanied by string music.

K. T. OBSERVANCE.

Nearly 100 Knights Templar assembled at 11 a. m. on Christmas Day according to long established custom. After the usual Christmas exercises were over a substantial sum was contributed to the committee for charity.

GIRL'S ARREST MEANS WEDDING A WEEK EARLIER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—Arrest and imprisonment for two days for stealing small change from the cash register in a store where she clerked, will mean marriage a week earlier for Miss Mary Martin, aged 22. She was to have been married New Year's day, but her attorney appeared in police court here today with the promise of her fiance that he would marry her immediately instead of waiting. A suspended sentence of 30 days in the workhouse was given her and her two sisters, Vivian, aged 18, and Mrs. Bertha Leach, all tried on the charge of petit larceny.

The girls told Police Chief Carter yesterday they could not live on their wages of $4 a week, and rather than do as many girls did to earn extra money, they filched small change from the cash register.

Attorney Utrey defending the Martin girls, said they were born in Jackson county and left without a mother when the elder girl was six years old. Their father has been a cripple for years, and two or three years ago the girls had to start to make their own living.

"We do not excuse them for stealing," said Attorney Utrey, "but we do say that the weight of circumstances was such as to make it impossible for them to live upon the salaries they received."

Police Prosecutor Schlesinger arose and recommended mercy for the girls, saying their case was but one in millions which are presenting the world its greatest problem at present.

400 BANKERS SEEK MEMBERSHIP IN RESERVE SYSTEM

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Dec. 26.—More than 400 national banks and trust companies, representing every state and almost every large city in the country have applied for membership in the federal reserve system of banks, according to an unofficial estimate made today by the treasury department. Applications have come so fast that officials have been unable to keep pace with them but a careful count and record of the time when they were received will be made today. Banks in New York, Chicago and Boston have not applied in great numbers for membership but Secretary McAdoo is of the opinion that their applications will be forthcoming.

Mr. McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston, the organization committee provided for in the law, got down to hard work today on plans for the division of the country into reserve districts and the location of reserve banks. An official announcement of the plan is expected today or tomorrow. It is probable that a personal inspection will be made by the two secretaries covering much of the country.

HAPPY HOLIDAY CROWD CAUGHT IN CAR CRASH

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—Two persons were fatally injured and 32 others, all Christmas merry makers were more or less seriously hurt in a rear-end street car collision in Garvanza, a suburb, late last night.

Most of these injured were friends returning home together from a Christmas party.

UNION OF 52 BODIES IS PLANNED

Roumanians From Nine Different States Meet in Newark

100 DELEGATES PRESENT

100,000 Roumanians in the United States May Be Brought Under One Organization—The Meeting Lasts Until Monday.

With their object the uniting of the 100,000 Roumanians now settled in the United States from districts of Austria-Hungary, 100 delegates from nine different states and representing fifty-one separate Roumanian societies, are assembled in Newark in convention of the organization known as the National Union of Roumanian Beneficial societies of the United States. Sessions are being held in Roumanian hall, Jackson street, and will not finally adjourn until Monday.

Delegates are here from various parts of Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia, Michigan, Missouri, New York, Kentucky and Connecticut. Among the distinguished guests is Rev. Costonidin Proca who came in obedience to instructions from the bishop of Sibiu, Hermanstadt, Austria-Hungary, to deliver a message of encouragement to these representatives of the Roumanian population of the United States.

This is the sixth annual gathering of the organization, which was instituted by the four beneficial societies of Martins Ferry, W. Va., Homestead, Pa., Indiana Harbor, Ind., and Newark. "Dacia Traiana," of Newark represents the home of the movement for unity of the many Roumanian societies in this country, and a Newark man, Augustin Sissea, is serving his sixth year as treasurer-general of the movement.

The reception of delegates here Thursday was followed by a big parade with the "Doina Romana" band of sixteen pieces, lead by Frank J. Mayer, a native American. The band is an Indianapolis organization taught by Mayer. After the parade the afternoon and night were spent in general festivities, many of the visitors taking in the theatres and other amusements.

As the Roumanian Christmas observance is according to the Greek-Orthodox calendar, thirteen days later than the Greek calendar, the holiday festivities of Americans have no connection with the date set for the convention.

Officers will be elected probably Saturday. Present officers of the national organization are:

George Grama, Philadelphia, national president general; Ioan G. Hoza, Alliance, O., first vice president; Ioan N. Sufana, Indiana Harbor, Ind., secretary general, and Augustin Sissea, Newark, treasurer general.

Among the distinguished Roumanian visitors are Editor C. R. Pascu, of the official Roumanian organ, "America," published in Cleveland, and Vasilie Stanescu, treasurer of the publication.

CHARGE ELLIS WITH BLOWING WIFE TO ATOMS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 26.—Closely guarded by deputy sheriffs, Thomas Ellis was brought to jail here today charged with the murder of his wife on Christmas night. They had quarreled, according to the authorities, and while the woman was asleep, Ellis is alleged to have placed a quantity of blasting powder in the middle of the floor of their mountain cabin near Winfred, W. Va., and exploded it with a fuse. The explosion, which tore the cabin to pieces, aroused the settlement and Ellis was charged with the crime.

DETROIT DEPOT BURNED FRIDAY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 26.—Fire in the Michigan Central depot at the foot of Third street this afternoon threatened to destroy the entire building. The loss will amount to many thousands of dollars, including valuable records of the railroad. The railroad recently completed the erection of a new depot, but had not moved into the new quarters.

TWO BARGES SINK.

New York, Dec. 26.—The Forker River, N. J., life saving station reported today that two barges sank about three quarters of a mile off that station this morning. The revenue cutter Ithaca was ordered to the scene.

Adelaide N. Branch, "Heart Wife," She Says, of Monticello, N. Y., Lawyer for Ten Years

The death of Melvin H. Couch, lawyer and leading politician at Monticello, N. Y., a village which is supported largely by the tourist travel of health seekers from New York City both in winter and summer, revealed one of the strangest romances. Such a situation would, in a work of fiction, have been passed by as too improbable.

For ten years the woman had lived in a small room off the lawyer's office, and did not go out more than once each year during that time. Three blocks away his wife and family lived in one of the finest houses of the village. No one even suspected her existence. He died suddenly of heart disease at 5 o'clock in the morning. The woman hurried out for a doctor, and then the story came forth. She told the police she was Couch's "heart wife," and now it is feared her situation may drive her to suicide.

SHOOTS MOTHER FOR BURGLAR

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 26.—A tragedy marked the close of Christmas in Lincoln, when Carl F. Carlson, at midnight shot and killed his mother, whom he says he mistook for a burglar. Mother and son, who lived alone were in fear of burglars, and when the mother stepped out on the porch, unknown to Carlson, and he saw a shadow through the window, he fired at a supposed marauder, inflicting a wound from which she died an hour later.

TWINS, AGE 95, CELEBRATE THEIR ANNIVERSARY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Babylon, N. Y., Dec. 26.—The Muncy Twins, William and Samuel, 95 years old, and said to be the oldest twins in the United States, celebrated their birthday yesterday. About fifty of their immediate friends and family, which consist of children, grand children, great grandchildren, and great great grandchildren, were present. For years it has been the custom of the twins to eat their Christmas dinner at the home of one and have their New Year's celebration at the others home. Yesterday the family assembled at the home of William Muncy.

On New Year's day the party will be at the home of Samuel, the other twin. The twins were born here and have lived here all their lives. They are farmers and both are widowers.

WOMAN KILLED, HUSBAND HURT BY TWO AUTOS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Dec. 26.—Mrs. Gertrude Lee, daughter of Col. Phillip F. Harvey, a retired United States army officer was killed and her self and Richard B. Lee was seriously injured by two automobiles which ran them down early today as they were returning home from Christmas dinner at the home of a friend. The Lees were crossing the street somewhere when the first car, a limousine ran over them. Before the driver could stop Mrs. Lee died on the operating table at a hospital. Her husband, however

The chauffeur of the car was arrested, but released. The driver started a hunt for the driver of the limousine which, after the accident put on speed and disappeared.

Colonel Harvey, here on a visit from Washington, had accompanied his daughter and son-in-law to the dinner and was walking ahead of them. He did not learn of the accident until he reached home. Lee is superintendent of transportation for the American Sugar Refining company.

WOMAN COP DRAGS DISORDERLY MAN FROM STREET CAR

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Mrs. Mary Boyd, one of Chicago's ten policewomen, is not a large woman, but she is muscular. Yesterday she boarded a street car while a powerfully built man and the conductor were engaged in a fight about a transfer. Mrs. Boyd showed her star and arrested the man.

When he resisted the officer, she pulled him from the car, stood him against a post and rang for the patrol wagon. Mrs. Boyd rode to the station with her prisoner and preferred a charge of disorderly conduct against him.

FOURTEEN KILLED WHEN EXPLOSION WRECKS FACTORY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Rome, Dec. 26.—No additional bodies have been found in the ruins of the fire works factory destroyed by an explosion at Torre Annunziata yesterday. The factory was a two story building located at the foot of Mount Vesuvius. Fourteen employes were killed and five seriously injured by the explosion, the cause of which is not known.

FOUR INVESTIGATIONS OF CALUMET DISASTER; MINERS DECLINE HELP

Peacemakers Endeavor to Bring End to Labor Troubles Which Have Disrupted the Community For Several Months

THE DEATH LIST IS REDUCED TO SEVENTY-TWO

Unnecessary Panic at Christmas Tree Entertainment Turns Joyous Festivity Into a Horrifying Tragedy—Women and Children Crushed in Mad Scramble for Exits When Cry of Fire is Given—Funerals Being Arranged Today.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 26.—While four separate investigations of Calumet's Christmas tree disaster in which 72 persons, most of them children, were killed, were being made today and a dispute was being waged as to who should bury the dead, peacemakers were at work in a supreme effort to bring about an end to the copper mine strike in this region.

Over the bodies of the little ones, the leaders of the peace movement hoped to see an end to the labor strife, which has torn the Calumet copper district for several months.

United in their grief over the snuffing out of so many young lives the warring factions—mine operators, guards and strike breakers union miners and their friends have no thought of the labor battle that indirectly is blamed for the most gruesome horror in the history of Calumet. There was still a dispute over whether the offer of the citizens alliance, an organization that has been considered hostile to the strikers, to defray all the burial expenses would be permitted. Officials of the Western Federation of Miners declared that the offer would be spurned.

"We will care for our own dead" was the response to the alliance.

The feeling of hostility was not so marked today when it was seen that the citizens of Calumet and other cities in the mine district were in earnest in their efforts to raise funds for the stricken families. Almost unlimited amounts of money were pledged by mine owners and merchants who have been opposing the strikers. The committees representing the operators went from house to house today comforting the surviving members of families whose dear ones were taken from them in the unnecessary panic.

Following these committees went others and suggestions that peace be declared between the forces representing capital and labor were diplomatically expressed.

After the funerals of all the victims which were to be arranged for later today, it was expected by many that the spirit of fight will have been interred with the bodies and that peace will prevail.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 26.—Seventy-two persons, mostly children, were killed Wednesday night at a Christmas celebration given by copper mine strikers in an Italian hall, because of a needless panic caused by a false alarm of fire.

While seven hundred miners and their wives looked on, the children pressed eagerly towards the stage to receive Christmas presents. Suddenly a man near the door of the hall yelled "fire."

The cry was taken up by those in the hall. Everyone started for the doors. The weaker were thrown to the floor and those behind tried to climb over those ahead of them.

The stairways and other avenues of egress were blocked so effectually that those inside could not get out and those without could not get in to aid the panic-stricken crowd in the hall. It was some time before the panic subsided.

On the day, which throughout all Christendom is set aside as a day of rejoicing over the birth of the Savior, Calumet, stricken to the heart by an almost unbelievable catastrophe, stands mourning by the side of its dead, the 72 victims of the frightful panic on Christmas eve in the Italian hall. This panic followed a false alarm cry of fire during the progress of a Christmas tree entertainment arranged for families of the copper strikers. All bitterness and ill-feeling that has existed in this strike-ridden community during the past months is wiped away by one great, common affliction. Today the people of Calumet can only see their neighbors, their brothers, their sisters, and their little children staggering under an almost unbearable burden of distress and grief.

A great mass meeting of Calumet citizens was held Thursday afternoon to express their sympathy and devise ways and means to ameliorate the sufferings of those on whom deaths had fallen so heavily. A committee of 12 was appointed to visit each individual home of the bereaved families and ascertain what financial assistance is necessary. Unlimited funds are assured and no outside aid will be necessary.

"With the kindest feeling for those who offered it, we ask no outside help," states the resolutions of sympathy adopted. "These, our own people, and this is our sacred privilege to care for our dead and to comfort the living."

The statement of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners that no benefits from the citizens would be accepted, was disregarded. The strikers also met and named a committee, comprising representatives of the nationalities of the victims, to call on the stricken relatives and learn their wishes regarding the funeral. This committee will meet today to make arrangements for the services.

The authorities so far have been unable to trace a man who is said to have gone up the stairs of the Italian Hall and raised the cry of fire which is supposed to have started the panic which led to the fearful crush in the stairway and caused the death of the nearly four score men, women and

QUESTION FOR ALIENISTS HAS 30,000 WORDS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Dec. 26. — Hans Schmidt's attorneys brought into court today hypothetical questions 30,000 words long. They expected to spend more than 2 hours reading these questions, this afternoon or tomorrow, to the alienists called by the state to prove that Schmidt was insane when he killed Anna Aumuller.

Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, one of the state's medical experts, continued his testimony at the murder trial today. He said that Schmidt told him God commanded me to slay Anna Aumuller." He said to the defendant, "You know you are not sane and lying. You know that you just a scheme of yours to plead that you are insane and escape the consequences of your crime."

At this Schmidt became greatly excited, said Dr. MacDonald, insisting that he was not insane and that he wanted to die.

SLEEPING TOTS SCALDED WHEN TANK BURSTS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Toledo, O., Dec. 26.—While Mrs. Paul G. Retzke and her two small children were asleep this morning on the first floor of their two story frame residence on Western avenue, the tank of a hot water heater in a closet over the bedroom burst and the mother and both children were severely scalded by hot water which leaked through the ceiling and fell on the bed and its sleeping occupants.

The most severely injured was Paul G. Retzke, jr., aged three, who was so badly burned about the arms, legs and thighs that portions of skin and flesh peeled off when the physicians cut clothes were removed. A physician. The other injured child Florence, five, was scalded on the back and limbs. In her efforts to save her little ones from the scalding deluge Mrs. Retzke was severely burned about the hands and arms.

CURRENCY BILL IS NOW A LAW

Condensed Version, Containing Most Important Provisions of the Federal Reserve Act Passed by Congress and Approved by the President.

THE federal reserve act is now a part of the law of the land. With President Wilson's signature to the new Glass-Owen currency reform bill the country looks forward to the practical working out of the act. The law is in part as follows:

An act to provide for the establishment of federal reserve banks to furnish an elastic currency, to afford means of rediscounting commercial paper, to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States and for other purposes.

© 1913, by American Press Association.
THE PRESIDENT.

That the short title of this act shall be the "federal reserve act."

Sec. 2. As soon as practicable the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture and the comptroller of the currency, acting as "the reserve bank organization committee," shall designate not less than eight nor more than twelve cities to be known as federal reserve cities, and shall divide the continental United States, excluding Alaska, into districts, each district to contain only one of such federal reserve cities.

NAMING RESERVE BANKS.

To Take Title of Principal City In Reserve District.

The said committee shall supervise the organization in each of the cities designated of a federal reserve bank, which shall include in its title the name of the city in which it is situated, as "Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago."

Under regulations to be prescribed by the organization committee every national banking association in the United States is hereby required and every eligible bank in the United States and every trust company within the District of Columbia is hereby authorized to signify in writing within sixty days after the passage of this act its acceptance of the terms and provisions hereof.

When the organization committee shall have designated the cities in which federal reserve banks are to be organized and fixed the geographical limits of the federal reserve districts every national banking association within that district shall be required within thirty days after notice from the organization committee to subscribe to the capital stock of such federal reserve bank in a sum equal to 6 per cent of the paid up capital stock and surplus of such bank.

Any national bank failing to signify its acceptance of the terms of this act within the sixty days aforesaid shall cease to act as a reserve agent upon thirty days' notice to be given within the discretion of the said organization committee or of the federal reserve board.

Should any national banking association in the United States now organized fail within one year after the passage of this act to become a member bank under the provisions hereinbefore stated or fail to comply with any of the provisions of this act applicable thereto all of the rights, privileges and franchises of such association granted to it under the national bank act or under the provisions of this act shall be thereby forfeited.

No individual, copartnership or corporation other than a member bank of its district shall be permitted to subscribe for or to hold at any time more than $10,000 par value of stock in any federal reserve bank. Such stock shall be known as public stock and may be transferred on the books of the federal reserve bank by the chairman of the board of directors of such bank.

Should the subscription of stock by banks and the public be inadequate the government itself may subscribe for stock. Stock not held by member banks shall be voted by Class C directors only.

RESERVE BANK BRANCHES.

Regional Institutions Empowered to Establish Sub-Banks.

No federal reserve bank shall commence business with a subscribed capital less in amount than $3[illegible],000.

Sec. 3. Each federal reserve bank shall establish branch banks within the federal reserve district in which it is located and may do so in the district of any federal reserve bank which may have been suspended. Such branches shall be operated by a board of directors under the rules and regulations approved by the federal reserve board. Directors of branch banks shall possess the same qualifications as directors of the federal reserve banks. Four of said directors shall be selected by the reserve bank and three by the federal reserve board, and they shall hold office during the pleasure, respectively, of the parent bank and the federal reserve board. The reserve bank shall designate one of the directors as manager.

Sec. 4. * * * Upon the filing of * * * certificate with the comptroller of the currency * * * the said federal reserve bank shall become a body corporate and as such and in the name designated in such organization certificate shall have power—

First.—To adopt and use a corporate seal.

Second.—To have succession for a period of twenty years from its organization unless it is sooner dissolved by an act of congress or unless its franchise becomes forfeited by some violation of law.

Third.—To make contracts.

Fourth.—To sue and be sued, complain and defend, in any court of law or equity.

Fifth.—To appoint by its board of directors, elected as hereinafter provided, such officers as are not otherwise provided for in this act, to define their duties, require bonds of them and fix the penalty thereof, to dismiss such officers or any of them as may be appointed by them at pleasure and to appoint others to fill their places.

Sixth.—To prescribe by its board of directors by-laws not inconsistent with law regulating the manner in which its general business may be conducted and the privileges granted to it by law may be exercised and enjoyed.

Seventh.—To exercise by its board of directors or duly authorized officers or agents all powers specifically granted by the provisions of this act and such incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking within the limitations prescribed by this act.

Eighth.—Upon deposit with the treasurer of the United States of any bonds of the United States in the manner provided by existing law relating to national banks to receive from the comptroller of the currency circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned as provided by law, equal in amount to the par value of the bonds so deposited, such notes to be issued under the same conditions and provisions of law which relate to the issue of circulating notes of national banks secured by bonds of the United States bearing the circulating privilege, except that the issue of such notes shall not be limited to the amount of the capital stock of such federal reserve bank.

But no federal reserve bank shall transact any business except such as is incidental and necessarily preliminary to its organization until it has been authorized by the comptroller of the currency to commence business under the provisions of this act.

CLASSES OF DIRECTORS.

Board of Nine to Control Each Reserve Bank.

Every federal reserve bank shall be conducted under the supervision and control of a board of directors.

Such board of directors shall be selected as hereinafter specified and shall consist of nine members, holding office for three years and divided into three classes, designated as Classes A, B and C.

Class A shall consist of three members, who shall be chosen by and be representative of the stock holding banks.

Class B shall consist of three members, who at the time of their election shall be actively engaged in their district in commerce, in agriculture or in some other industrial pursuit.

Class C shall consist of three members, who shall be designated by the federal reserve board. When the necessary subscriptions to the capital stock have been obtained for the organization for any federal reserve bank the federal reserve board shall appoint the Class C directors and shall designate one of such directors as chairman of the board to be selected. Pending the designation of such chairman the organization committee shall exercise the powers and duties appertaining to the office of chairman in the organization of such federal reserve bank.

No senator or representative in congress shall be a member of federal reserve board or an officer or a director of a federal reserve bank.

No director of Class B shall be an officer, director or employee of any bank.

No director of Class C shall be an officer, director, employee or stockholder of any bank.

Class C directors shall be appointed by the federal reserve board. They shall have been for at least two years residents of the district for which they are appointed, one of whom shall be designated by said board as chairman of the board of directors of the federal reserve bank and as "federal reserve agent." He shall be a person of tested banking experience, and in addition to his duties as chairman of the board of directors of the federal reserve bank he shall be required to maintain, under regulations to be established by the federal reserve board a local office of said board on the premises of the federal reserve bank.

Sec. 5. The capital stock of each federal reserve bank shall be divided into shares of $100 each.

Division of Earnings.

Sec. 7. After all necessary expenses of a federal reserve bank have been paid or provided for, the stockholders shall be entitled to receive an annual dividend of 6 per centum on the paid in capital stock, which dividends shall be cumulated. After the aforesaid dividend claims have been fully met all net earnings shall be paid to the United States as a franchise tax, except that one-half of such net earnings shall be paid into a surplus fund until it shall amount to 40 per centum of the paid in capital stock of such bank.

The net earnings derived by the United States from federal reserve banks shall, in the discretion of the secretary, be used to supplement the gold reserve held against outstanding United States notes, or shall be applied to the reduction of the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the United States. Reserve banks shall not be taxed except upon real estate.

Section 8 amends the existing banking laws, so that stockholders owning 51 per cent of the stock of banks other than national banks can convert their organizations into national banks.

Section 9 describes how state banks may become members of reserve banks.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.

Seven Members, Five of Whom Are to Get $12,000 a Year Each.

Sec. 10. A federal reserve board is hereby created, which shall consist of seven members, including the secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency, who shall be members ex officio, and five members appointed by the president of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. In selecting the five appointive members of the federal reserve board not more than one of whom shall be selected from any one federal reserve district, the president shall have due regard to a fair representation of the different geographical divisions of the country. The five members of the federal reserve board appointed by the president and confirmed as aforesaid shall devote their entire time to the business of the federal reserve board and shall each receive an annual salary of $12,000, together with actual necessary traveling expenses, and the comptroller of the currency, as ex officio member of the federal reserve board, shall in addition to the salary now paid him as comptroller of the currency, receive the sum of $7,000 annually for his services as a member of said board. The members of said board, the secretary of the treasury, the assistant secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency shall be ineligible during the time they are in office and for two years thereafter to hold any office, position or employment in any member bank. Of the five members thus appointed by the president at least two shall be persons experienced in banking or finance. One shall be designated by the president to serve for two, one for four, one for six, one for eight, one for ten, and thereafter each member so appointed shall serve for a term of ten years unless sooner removed for cause by the president. Of the five persons thus appointed one shall be designated by the president as governor and one as vice governor of the federal reserve board. The governor of the federal reserve board, subject to its supervision, shall be the acting executive officer.

The federal reserve board shall have power to levy semiannually upon the federal reserve banks in proportion to their capital stock and surplus an assessment sufficient to pay its estimated expenses and salaries of its members and employees for the half year succeeding the levying of such assessment, together with any deficit carried forward from the preceding half year.

The first meeting of the federal reserve board shall be held in Washington, District of Columbia, as soon as may be after the passage of this act at a date to be fixed by the reserve bank organization committee. The secretary of the treasury shall be ex officio chairman of the federal reserve board. No member of the federal reserve board shall be an officer or director of any bank, banking institution, trust company or federal reserve bank nor hold stock in any bank, banking institution or trust company, and before entering upon his duties as a member of the federal reserve board he shall certify under oath to the secretary of the treasury that he has complied with this requirement. Whenever a vacancy shall occur other than by expiration of term among the six members of the federal reserve board appointed by the president, as above provided, a successor shall be appointed by the president, with the advice and consent of the senate, to fill such vacancy.

The president shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen on the federal reserve board during the recess of the senate by granting commissions which shall expire thirty days after the next session of the senate convenes.

RESERVE BOARD POWERS.

Has Controlling Hand on Banking of the Nation.

Sec. 11. The federal reserve board shall be authorized and empowered:

(a) To examine at its discretion the accounts, books and affairs of each federal reserve bank and of each member bank and to require such statements and reports as it may deem necessary. The said board shall publish once each week a statement showing the condition of each federal reserve bank and a consolidated statement for all federal reserve banks. Such statements shall show in detail the assets and liabilities of the federal reserve banks, single and combined, and shall furnish full information regarding the character of the money held as reserve and the amount, nature and maturities of the paper and other investments owned or held by federal reserve banks.

(b) To permit or on the affirmative vote of at least five members of the reserve board to require federal reserve banks to rediscount the discounted paper of other federal reserve banks at rates of interest to be fixed by the federal reserve board.

(c) To suspend for a period not exceeding thirty days, and from time to time to renew such suspension for periods not exceeding fifteen days, any reserve requirement specified in this act: Provided, that it shall establish a graduated tax upon the amounts by which the reserve requirements of this act may be permitted to fall below the level hereinafter specified; and provided, further, that when the gold reserve held against federal reserve notes falls below 40 per centum, the federal reserve board shall establish a graduated tax of not more than 1 per centum upon such deficiency until the reserves fall to 32½ per centum, and when said reserve falls below 32½ per centum, a tax at the rate increasingly of not less than 1½ per centum upon each 2½ per centum or fraction thereof that such reserve falls below 32½ per centum. The tax shall be paid by the reserve bank, but the reserve bank shall add an amount equal to said tax to the rates of interest and discount fixed by the federal reserve board.

(d) To supervise and regulate through the bureau under the charge of the comptroller of the currency the issue and retirement of federal reserve notes, and to prescribe rules and regulations under which such notes may be delivered by the comptroller to the federal reserve agents applying therefor.

(e) To add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in section 20 of this act, or to reclassify existing reserve and central reserve cities or to terminate their designation as such.

(f) To suspend or remove any officer or director of any federal reserve bank, the cause of such removal to be forthwith communicated in writing by the federal reserve board to the removed officer or director and to said bank.

(g) To require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of federal reserve banks.

(h) To suspend, for the violation of any of the provisions of this act, the

PLANS SECOND WORLD'S SERIES AT PANAMA EXPO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Dec. 26.—James E. Sullivan, who has charge of the sporting features of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915, is laying plans for a baseball series between the world's contenders of that year.

Mr. Sullivan said yesterday that he intends to take up the matter with President John K. Tener, of the National League and President Ban Johnson, of the American League soon after new years.

It is Mr. Sullivan's idea to have a so-called "supplementary world's series" for a valuable trophy to be called the Panama Pacific cup, the rival pennant winners to play seven games on the exposition grounds immediately after the regular world's series has been decided. The rival major league champions will be invited to go to the coast at the expense of the exposition promoter and the players will receive the entire gate receipts.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring back color, thickness and lustre—Everybody is using it again.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advanced age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and straggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. Besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger. WINTER SURF BATHERS ENJOY CHILLY PLUNGE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

New York, Dec. 26.—Christmas was celebrated by one hundred and thirty of the winter bathers, men and women at Coney Island. The water registered 38 degrees, while the temperature of the atmosphere was thirty-seven degrees.

As the bathers appeared from the bath house each was presented with a bath rope, which was quickly discarded at the edge of the surf. The bathers remained in the water for fully fifteen minutes.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a glass of salts to flush out your kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a dull, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse, again, there is difficulty in holding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are troubled with urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

operations of any federal reserve bank, to take possession thereof, administer the same during the period of suspension and when deemed advisable to liquidate or reorganize such bank.

(i) To require bonds of federal reserve agents, to make regulations for the safeguarding of all collateral, bonds, federal reserve notes, money or property of any kind deposited in the hands of such agents, and said board shall perform the duties, functions or services specified in this act and to make all rules and regulations necessary to enable said board effectively to perform the same.

(j) To exercise general supervision over said federal reserve banks.

(k) To grant by special permit to national banks applying therefor, when not in contravention of state or local law, the right to act as trustee, executor, administrator or registrar of stocks and bonds under such rules and regulations as the said board may prescribe.

(l) To employ such attorneys, experts, assistants, clerks or other employees as may be deemed necessary to properly conduct the business of the board. All salaries and fees shall be fixed in advance by said board and shall be paid in the same manner as the salaries of the members of said board. All such attorneys, experts, assistants, clerks and other employees shall be appointed without regard to the provisions of the act of Jan. 16, 1883 (volume 22, United States statutes at large, page 403), and amendments thereto or any rule or regulation made in pursuance thereof.

Section 12 creates a federal advisory council, consisting of one member from each federal reserve district, which is empowered to confer with the federal reserve board and make representations regarding the business of the board

RESERVE BANK POWERS.

Principal Functions of the New Regional Institutions.

Sec. 13. Any federal reserve bank may receive from any of its member banks and from the United States deposits of current funds in lawful money, national bank notes, federal reserve notes or checks and drafts upon member banks, payable upon presentation or solely for exchange purposes may receive from other federal reserve banks deposits of current funds in lawful money, national bank notes or checks and drafts upon solvent member or other federal reserve banks payable upon presentation.

Upon the indorsement of any of its member banks, with a waiver of demand notice and protest by such bank, any federal reserve bank may discount notes, drafts and bills of exchange arising out of actual commercial transactions—that is, notes, drafts and bills of exchange issued or drawn for agricultural, industrial or commercial purposes or the proceeds of which have been used or are to be used for such purposes, the federal reserve board to have the right to determine or define the character of the paper thus eligible for discount within the meaning of this act. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prohibit such notes, drafts and bills of exchange secured by staple agricultural products or other goods, wares or merchandise from being eligible for such discount, but such definition shall not include notes, drafts or bills covering merely investments or issued or drawn for the purpose of carrying or trading in stocks, bonds or other investment securities except bonds and notes of the government of the United States. Notes, drafts and bills admitted to discount under the terms of this paragraph must have a maturity at the time of discount of not more than ninety days, provided that notes, drafts and bills drawn or issued for agricultural purposes or based on live stock and having a maturity not exceeding six months may be discounted in an amount to be limited to a percentage of the capital of the federal reserve bank, to be ascertained and fixed by the federal reserve board.

Discounting Acceptances.

Any federal reserve bank may discount acceptances which are based on the importation or exportation or domestic shipment of goods and which have a maturity at time of discount of not more than three months and indorsed by at least one member bank. The amount of acceptances so discounted shall at no time exceed one-half the paid up capital stock and surplus of the bank for which the rediscounts are made.

The aggregate of such notes and bills bearing the signature or indorsement of any one person, company or firm or corporation rediscounted for any one bank shall at no time exceed 10 per centum of the unimpaired capital and surplus of said bank, but this restriction shall not apply to the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actually existing values.

Any member bank may accept drafts or bills of exchange drawn upon it and growing out of transactions involving the importation or exportation of goods having not more than six months sight to run, but no bank shall accept such bills to an amount equal at any time in the aggregate to more than one-half of its paid up capital stock and surplus.

Open Market Operations.

Sec. 14. Any federal reserve bank may, under rules and regulations prescribed by the federal reserve board, purchase and sell in the open market at home or abroad, either from or to domestic or foreign banks, firms, corporations or individuals, cable transfers and bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities by this act made eligible for rediscount with or without the indorsement of a member bank.

Every federal reserve bank shall have power:

(a) To deal in gold coin and bullion at home or abroad, to make loans thereon, exchange federal reserve notes for gold, gold coin or gold certificates and to contract for loans of gold coin or bullion, giving therefor, when necessary, acceptable security, including the hypothecation of United States bonds or other securities which federal reserve banks are authorized to hold;

(b) To buy and sell at home or abroad bonds and notes of the United States and bills, notes, revenue bonds and warrants with a maturity from date of purchasing of not exceeding six months, issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes or in anticipation of the receipt of assured revenues by any state county, district, political subdivision or municipality in the continental United States, including irrigation, drainage and reclamation districts, such purchases to be made in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the federal reserve board;

(c) To purchase from member banks and to sell, with or without its indorsement, bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions as hereinbefore defined;

(d) To establish from time to time, subject to review and determination of the federal reserve board, rates of discount to be charged by the federal reserve bank for each class of paper, which shall be fixed with a view of accommodating commerce and business;

(e) To establish accounts with other federal reserve banks for exchange purposes and, with the consent of the federal reserve board, to open and maintain banking accounts in foreign countries, appoint correspondents and establish agencies in such countries wheresoever it may deem best for the purpose of purchasing, selling and collecting bills of exchange, and to buy and sell with or without its indorsement through such correspondents or agencies, bills of exchange arising out of actual commercial transactions which have not more than ninety days to run and which bear the signature of two or more responsible parties.

Section 15 provides that moneys held in the general fund of the United States treasury, except the 5 per centum fund for the redemption of outstanding national bank notes and the funds provided in the act for the redemption of federal reserve notes, may be deposited in federal reserve banks which shall act as fiscal agents and that the funds of the Philippine Islands, the postal savings and any other government funds must be deposited in federal reserve banks.

Section 16 provides for the issuance of federal reserve notes to federal reserve banks, redeemable in gold on demand at the treasury department of in gold or lawful money at any federal reserve bank. The collateral security shall be notes and bills accepted for rediscount under section 13. Federal reserve banks shall have a gold reserve of 40 per cent of their federal reserve notes and shall maintain in the United States treasury in gold a reserve of not less than 5 per cent of the federal reserve notes for their redemption.

Section 17 repeals laws requiring national banks to deposit government bonds with the United States treasurer.

Section 18 provides a plan for retiring the 2 per cent bonds on which the present currency is based. Under the plan $25,000,000 worth of these bonds will be purchased each year, beginning two years after the system is placed in operation, by the new regional banks from member banks. On one-half of its holdings each regional bank may issue currency. The remainder will be refunded in 3 per cent thirty year bonds or 3 per cent one year treasury notes, which the banks must agree to renew each year for thirty years.

Section 19 describes how member banks shall establish and maintain reserves.

Section 21 provides for the examination of each member bank by the comptroller of the currency at least twice a year, for a special examination of member banks when desired by federal reserve banks and for a special examination of any federal reserve bank upon the application of ten member banks.

PENALTY FOR DISHONESTY.

Tampering With Bank Examiners Made Criminal Offense.

Sec. 22. No member bank or any officer, director or employee thereof shall hereafter make any loan or grant any gratuity to any bank examiner. Any bank officer, director or employee violating this provision shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year or fined not more than $5,000, or both, may be fined a further sum equal to the money so loaned or gratuity given. Any examiner accepting a loan or gratuity from any bank examined by him or from an officer, director or employee thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be imprisoned not exceeding one year or fined not more than $5,000, or both.

Section 23 provides that national bank stockholders shall be responsible for all contracts, debts and engagements of their banks to the amount of their stock at par value in addition to the amount invested in such stock. If they transfer their stock within sixty days before the failure of their banks they shall be liable to the same extent in case the transferee fails to meet such liability.

Loans on Farm Lands.

Sec. 24. Any national banking association not situated in a central reserve city may make loans secured by improved and unencumbered farm land situated within its federal reserve district, but no such loan shall be made for a longer time than five years nor for an amount exceeding 50 per centum of the actual value of the property offered as security. Any such bank may make such loans in an aggregate sum equal to 25 per centum of its capital and surplus or to one-third of its time deposits, and such banks may continue hereafter, as heretofore, to receive time deposits and pay interest on the same.

The federal reserve board shall have power from time to time to add to the list of cities in which national banks shall not be permitted to make loans secured upon real estate in the manner described in this section

Section 25 authorizes national banking associations possessing a capital and surplus of $1,000,000 or more to establish foreign branches under the direction of the federal reserve board.

Section 26 authorizes the secretary of the treasury to strengthen the gold reserve by borrowing gold on United States bonds or by selling them.

Section 27 extends from June 30, 1914, until June 30, 1915, the life of an act authorizing national currency associations, the issuance of additional national bank circulation and the creation of a national monetary commission. It re-enacts certain United States banking statutes amended by an act of May 30, 1908, subject to such amendments or modifications as are contained in the new currency law. It amends the May 30, 1908, act in regard to the taxation of circulating notes held by national banking associations and secured otherwise than by United States bonds.

Section 29 provides that if any part of the act is declared invalid by a court the judgment shall not affect the remainder of the act.

New Year's In France

NEW YEAR'S is celebrated to a greater extent in France than in any other country. Closely following the Christmas festivities, the celebration for the opening of the New Year vies with the earlier holiday events. Everywhere in the republic do the festivities take place, and among the places where it is the most enjoyed is in the kitchens of the homes.

The average housemaid of France works for a very small salary. But she is an apt and willing servant, for she looks forward from one New Year's day to another, as then she reaps the reward for her work. It is the custom in France to make presents to all the servants at the opening of each year. This present is nearly always in cash, and it may be $5 or $200, depending upon the financial condition of the employer.

With such a custom in vogue there is very little trouble with servants in that country. They rarely quit their positions; they strive to please their employers and at all times look forward to the New Year. All the servants are allowed certain amounts. The janitor gets his share, and no one is forgotten.

In France the housewife does very little of the marketing. It is left to the servants. Then the servants do the bargaining. If potatoes are 10 cents per pound and the girl can get them from some marketwoman for 8 cents she reasons that the mistress should not profit by the bargaining, but that she herself should have the difference. The regular price of the potatoes being 10 cents, the servant marks them down in her book at that price and pockets the difference. This is one of the peculiarities of the French method of keeping house, and it has been found a real aid in keeping servants.

The housewives are aware of what is taking place, but they are satisfied to pay the regular market prices. It is the bargaining of the servants which gets them an extra allowance, but as long as the eatables are up to the standard the housewife does not complain.

Then the servant who does the marketing expects New Year's gifts from other sources. There is no special reason why she should purchase her foodstuffs at a certain market booth. But it will be noticed that she often does that very thing. When New Year's day rolls around the owner of the market booth is supposed to make her a nice present, and the present is appreciated most if it is in cash. It really must be in cash.

Then there are the iceman, the coalman, the milkman. All of these are supposed to remember the servant girl when the new year begins. In this manner the average servant, if she is keen witted—and the most of them are—makes a snug little addition to her regular wages.

The servants very often work for only enough to clothe themselves. They must depend on what they can make by bargaining and by receiving New Year's gifts, and these "gifts" the girls usually place in a bank at interest, thus building up their doweries for their future marriages, when they may even marry the iceman, the milkman or the coalman.

There are some points about the French method of holding servants which are extremely satisfactory when compared to the American plan, but there are others not quite so pleasing. The girl may become so engrossed in her bargaining, as is often the case, that she disregards the table of her mistress. She may arrange to procure the edibles of a very low price, pocketing the difference from the market price, and the foodstuffs may not be so palatable. But if she is content with small amounts her bargainings will never be noticed.

The American servant is paid a stipulated salary, enough for her to live upon, and the bargaining is eliminated. This takes away one of the objectionable points, and the table is usually up to the standard regardless of whether the housewife or the servant does the marketing. But the French plan certainly does hold the servants from one year to another, for there is always the prospect of the New Year's present.—New York Post.

MANY NEW JOBS FOR DEMOCRATS

New Bills Provide Places Not on Civil Service List.

ECONOMY A HARD PROGRAM

Big Demands For Appropriations Come From All Sources—District of Columbia In Battle For Larger Expenditures—Cummins Points Out That Senators Like a Quarrel.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Democrats in congress have not overlooked the possibilities of getting places for their followers in the legislation which they have passed. The tariff bill provided for numerous employees which were excluded from the civil service. The same is true in regard to the currency bill. Then there was another bill passed in which deputy collectors were taken from under the civil service. Altogether quite a number of places have been fixed up so that party men can be appointed, and they need not fear the nonpartisanship of civil service examinations.

More Money Wanted.

One day when the house went over the old road of economy talk Congressman Austin pointed out that the present cabinet officers had asked for $42,769,000 more than their Republican predecessors. "I am not complaining of this," said Austin, who believes in liberal appropriations, "but I do complain of Democratic criticisms of Republican extravagance in the face of what the Democrats themselves are doing." The growth of the government, together with new methods of expending public money, create a demand for money which cannot be resisted.

The Local Demand.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania did not take much part in the discussion of the currency bill, but he did get in long enough to point out what Philadelphia had been in the past, what the city boasted in the way of a mint and financial institutions and insisted that the Quaker City should not be overlooked when it came to the establishment of regional banks. Many other cities want regional banks.

"No Way of Escaping."

Senator Newlands was talking about Democratic conferences. "I see no way of escaping such conferences," he said.

Senator Root interrupted. "I merely wanted to ask the senator from Nevada whether he had been trying to escape from them," said the New York senator.

Newlands insisted that he was not trying to escape—that he was co-operating with the conferences in every way. "I am not trying to escape from the Democratic party," he protested. "Certainly, when I do, I will not go into the opposition party."

"I should like to see the senator from Nevada organize a party of his own," commented Borah of Idaho.

The Old Battle Rages.

Once a year, about the time the District of Columbia appropriation bill passes, there is the same old battle between the people of Washington and the men in congress. It rages fiercely, dies out, to be renewed the next year. During this annual trouble Congressman Page told the house some things he heard at a meeting in Washington called to air the wrongs of the people here. He quoted a woman speaker who, criticising what it was proposed to do in congress, said, "It is up to us women of the District to defend our men." The North Carolina member quoted a man as saying at the same meeting, "It is a shame that we citizens of dear old Washington have to be badgered and insulted by these so called statesmen from the west, many of whom never saw a city before in their lives."

Walsh of Montana.

It is seldom that a senator can make a reputation in one session of congress, but such is the case with Senator Walsh of Montana. He early established himself as a lawyer, but he has also proved that he is well versed in constitutional law. There is always some wonderment as to how a man from away out west could acquire so much legal knowledge, but there have been a number of notable examples besides Walsh. Sutherland of Utah and Borah of Idaho are men from far western states whose legal knowledge is respected in the senate.

Want to See Blood.

Congratulating himself upon the fact that more than the ordinary number of senators were present to listen to him, Senator Cummins said, "I was saying to my dear friend Senator Stone the other day there is only one thing that can fill this chamber, and that is the expectation that one senator will call another a liar or something"—

"Something interesting," interjected John Sharp Williams.

"In parliamentary language," continued the Iowa senator, "we are savages, all of us. We like to see the blood run, and whenever any senator here has a lance sharp enough to open a vein and the crimson fluid begins to flow these seats fill with the rapidity with which a crowd rushes to a country circus."

Four wireless stations are being erected on the Island of Borneo.

Wm. A. Ashbrock Attends An Iowa Congressman's Funeral

Congressman W. A. Ashbrook was in the city a few hours Wednesday evening and left on the B. & O. for Mansfield to join the Congressional delegation to Muscatine, Iowa, to attend the funeral of Congressman I. S. Pepper, whose burial took place in that city today. The Iowa Congressman and Mr. Ashbrook were close personal friends and the latter was appointed by the Speaker to be a member of the delegation to attend Mr. Pepper's funeral.

Mr. Ashbrook is highly elated over the work of Congress in the passage of the currency bill which he esteems as one of the most valuable measures for the people that has been enacted into law since the civil war. He pronounces it a real business emancipation and one that has been needed by the people since Trust dominance has been such a menace against the masses in the interest of the favored few.

The Democratic party has made a notable record in legislation. To have passed the Tariff bill, including an income tax and the Currency bill within nine months gives evidence of a capacity for affirmative action that the Republicans did not dream of. Their chagrin at defeat a year ago was tempered by bright visions of sitting around mirthfully while the poor, incompetent, inexperienced and discordant Democrats tried in vain to agree on something. And things haven't come out that way. A great relief has come to the suffering business interests of this progressive country, as the result of Democratic activity and administrative ability.

Wall street will have to sit up and take notice. New York has always believed, because it was the financial metropolis, that it had a corner on financial knowledge and that banking and currency bills couldn't be made without its direction. And now it finds that Oklahoma and Virginia money experts can make a banking and currency bill which the country is likely to find of the greatest advantage to it, and into which national and state banks are not only willing but anxious to enter. Thus the West and the South score once more on the Northeast, and produce a measure which monetary authorities recognize as safe and sane, meeting the defects of the present system, and yet which is an absolute protection of the country at large from a Money Trust.

Uncle Walt

The Sick Season.

Oh, this is the season when man has good reason to lay in abundance of powders and pills, to order in creams of ointments and lotions, of hoarhound and balsams and syrup of squills. For all passing breezes the germs of diseases are sowing abroad with an imbecile zeal; around you they hover, and when you recover from pain in your shoulder, there's one in your heel. Yea, ill follows ailment, and there's a derailment of all of our organs, pianos and such; with gout and rheumatics from toes to our attics, we're glad we are able to walk with a crutch. With thin, trembling talons we reach for five gallons of dope that the doctor prescribed for our cure, we swallow his potions with divers emotions, and wish we could give all our aches to the poor. We're cured of the measles, and, chipper as weasels, we toddle downtown on a gossiping trip, and when the night's falling and newsboys are calling, we journey back home with a dose of the grip. Man, healed of the shingles, in ecstacy mingles with other glad mortals, and frolics and jumps, then chirurgeons view him, and sadly come to him and send him back home to be cured of the mumps. Thus pain and disorder drives man o'er the border, o'er sanity boarder, alas that it's true! And when he has shaken one fierce kind of achin', another will give him a spasm or two.

On Second Thought

Nothing is so unattractive as vice in daylight. That which is taboo owes much vogue as it has to the friendly cover of darkness.

It is now definitely known that William Tell did not shoot an apple from his son's head. But those who have had occasion to use a crossbow never did believe it.

The sport of expectoration has been robbed of much of its pleasure by laws which compel those who follow it to hit the cuspidor or submit to arrest and fine.

We seem to make progress to the extent that the number of fourteen and a half necks encircled by sixteen collars decreases from year to year.

Enthusiasm may be classed as artificial when the use of a megaphone is necessary to inspire it.

A popular religion is one which does away with hell for you and provides it for the other fellow.

Probably the most painful, to the subject, of all operations is that of separating a man from his money.

CHILDREN'S FRIEND PARALYZED: GIFTS HAD BEEN PREPARED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Harrison, N. J., Dec. 26.—Santa Claus, who in past years, made gifts from William Tell, a blind soldier, every day calls at his stand to wish him Merry Christmas. Tell was not there. Upon inquiry several of the older children learned that their benefactor had been stricken with paralysis while leaving his home with a stock of gifts for his little friends.

Tell's condition today is reported to be serious and little hope is entertained for his recovery.

CHILDREN OF HOME WELL REMEMBERED

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Orr Superintendent and Matron of the children's home, wish to thank all those who so kindly helped to make a brighter and happier Xmas for the little ones of the children's home. Especially do they appreciate it as it was all unsolicited.

They especially wish to thank the W. H. Mazey & Co., for a dozen dressed dolls, one dozen work bags complete and fifty handkerchiefs.

Weiant & Cromer for forty-six boxes of fine assorted candy; Miss Fannie Kochenderfer for toys and books; Mr. Ed Rutlege for one years subscription to a daily paper; Mrs. Welch for toys, books candy and nuts; the twelve college girls of Granville under the supervision of Miss Harriette Hunt for thirteen full dressed beautiful dolls; the two organizations of the "Camp Fire Girls" under the leadership of Miss Spencer and Miss Hopkins for dolls, toys, books and candy, nearly a hundred different articles in all; Mr. Frank Baker of Madison Township for a fine large Christmas tree; Mr. L. B. Wilson for toys, and to Manager Evans of the Orpheum for free tickets to all the children of the home, the receipts at the door to be donated to the children of the home.

Frazer Succeeds Roct as Head of the Woodmen of World

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 26.—W. A. Frazer of Dallas, Texas, sovereign advocate of the order, will automatically succeed J. Cullen Root, sovereign commander of the Woodmen of the World, who died Wednesday at his residence in N. Y. This statement was given out last night at the headquarters of the order in that city.

BROWNSVILLE.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Maud Orr on Thursday, December 18. A Christmas program was rendered, and a generous Christmas offering was given by those present, after which an excellent lunch was served by the hostess. The meeting adjourned to meet in four weeks at the home of Miss Jane McMaster.

The M. E. Sunday school which has been increasing in interest and numbers for some time, gave the school on last Sunday a generous treat of apples, oranges and candy.

The Presbyterian Sunday school held Christmas exercises on Monday evening. A beautiful Christmas tree was erected and a good program rendered. A collection was taken and many things were donated, to be sent to the Salvation Army of Zanesville to distribute among the poor of that city.

Word reached here Monday of the death of Rev. L. B. Sparks, who died at the home of his daughter in Hymera, Ind., and who spent his boyhood days in Brownsville. The people of the town and vicinity are greatly grieved at the news.

The schools closed here last Friday for a two weeks vacation. The four instructors, Superintendent Byron Ywanyer of Canal Winchester, Sadie Giffen, principal of Hanover, Cora Brown of this place, and Margarite Morrison of Clay Lick all left for their respective homes.

Charles Cooperider, a student of Athens University, is spending his vacation with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Cooperider.

Rollin Gutridge, a teacher at Richmondale, O., is spending the vacation with his mother, Mrs. Leticia Gutridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Johnson and little daughter Margaret of Athens are visiting Mrs. Johnston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Iden.

Rev. Mr. Clifford and wife of Cambridge, O., is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McMulen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Brown and wife and Miss Cora Brown are visiting friends near Sumertown in Belmont county, Ohio.

Mrs. Ella Tippitt and grandson Eugene are visiting friends in Zanesville.

Misses Helen and Sarah Morton, who have been attending school in Columbus and Oberlin, are at home for the vacation.

BOTHERED BY CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, HEAD OR CHEST COLDS

Try the New External Treatment—Relieves by Inhalation and Absorption No Stomach Dosing.

For years we have been dosing ourselves to cure cold troubles despite the fact that vapor treatments are quicker and do not disturb the stomach. The trouble has been that the old methods of administering these vapors such as vapor lamps, etc., were very cumbersome. Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve contains Menthol, Thymol, Eucalyptol, Camphor, and Pine Tar, combined by a special process, so that they are vaporized when Vick's is applied to the heat of the body. These vapors open the air passages, loosen the phlegm, and heal the inflamed mucous membrane.

For Catarrh and Head Colds melt a little in a spoon and inhale the vapors. Also apply well up the nostrils. For Asthma and Hay Fever follow the above instructions and also rub well over the spinal column, thus relaxing the nervous tension. For Bronchitis, Sore Throat, and deep chest colds, apply well over chest and throat, first opening the pores by applications of hot wet towels. Then cover with a warm flannel cloth leaving the covering loose around the neck so the vapors arising may be inhaled all night long. In addition Vick's is absorbed through the pores taking out the tightness and soreness. Three sizes 25, 50c and $1.00.

French Apples.

The best French apples are sent to market wrapped in tissue paper and separated by a thin layer of excelsior or straw. This is known as packing in "nests."

BREATHE FREELY! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD---END CATARRH

Instant Relief When Nose and Head are Clogged from a Cold. Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Vanishes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with it's running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

Lick's Luck.

James Lick, the founder and endower of the great astronomical establishment in California, was born in very humble circumstances, we are told, at Fredericksburg, Pa., Aug. 25, 1796. Having made a small fortune of $30,000 or $40,000 by commerce with South America, he invested it in San Francisco land while as yet the great city of the Golden Gate was but a strip of wind blown sand between the mighty Pacific and the now famous bay. The gold fever broke out in the spring of 1848, and the little cluster of wooden shacks became all at once a center of attraction to thousands from all over the world. The 600 inhabitants increased to hundreds of thousands; hotels, villas, places of business, rose like magic for mile after mile along the bay, and in the sudden phenomenal rise of the price of land James Lick found himself one of the rich men of the world. It was thus that he got the money for his large bequests to science.—New York Mail.

When Freedom Shrieked.

It is much to be feared that the great Pole, Kosciusko, is known to most Americans simply from the line in a famous poem, "And Freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell."

One might suppose that the hero fell in battle. In fact, he died serenely in Switzerland at seventy-one after failing to maintain the independence of Poland. His fall was political and military, but not physical.

It should be remembered that the great Pole was the most distinguished engineer officer in the armies commanded by Washington; that he fought and labored long and well for the patriot cause. It was he who laid out the defenses at West Point which Benedict Arnold tried to betray to the British, and in a sense the Military academy is a monument to him, for he lived to see it started on its glorious career.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Mustaches.

A mustache is what you choose to make it. Almost every man has the raw materials at his command, and he can cut them or cuddle them as he sees fit. Some men beat their mustaches savagely back into their upper lips, refusing them growth, shave them remorselessly once or twice a day and never let a hair of them see the light of day. Other men coax and cajole their mustaches to emerge, pet them, pamper them, protect them and view the resultant hirsute effects in the light of artistic achievements. But not all mustaches are artistic. Some are stubby, and some are scraggly, and some are simply unmowed hair. Now and again we encounter a work of superior excellence, an accomplishment in mustache making, a feat in facial foliage.—Saturday Evening Post.

Easily Identified.

While rambling around with his father one afternoon little Johnny came to a miniature lake on which two swans were swimming.

"Papa," said Johnny, pointing a chubby little finger out over the lake, "is that the father swan or the mother swan?"

"Which one do you mean, Johnny?" asked the old man, glancing in the direction indicated by the boy.

"I mean the one over there," answered Johnny, "the one with all the feathers pecked off his head and isn't allowed to have the biscuit or nothing."

"Yes, my son," promptly rejoined papa, with just a suspicion of a sigh. "That's the father swan, all right."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Interpreter Wanted.

Curling, like its sister Scottish game of golf, has its own vocabulary. Here is a dialogue in which a Scot in the antipodes tried to illustrate the "kittle pints" of the game to his New Zealand friends.

"What's a pat-lid, Mr. Macpherson?" asked an inexperienced member of the venerable "skip."

"Div ye no see, ye gowk?" said the skip. "Ye ding yer stane cannily, but nae sae fine as tae hog it; nae halfin' fleg nor jinkin' turn, ye ken, but tentiely, that it aye gangs snoovin' an' straucht as an elder'd walk, hog snoutherin' amang the guairds, till ye fan' on the verra tee. When ye've dune that, laddie, ye've made a pat-lid, and ye may bear the gree!"

The Prosperity Pose.

When you are down on your luck keep a stiff upper lip and a smiling countenance. Don't let the world know that you are down or everybody will want to give you an additional kick. Put on an air of prosperity; everybody will help to boost you upward. Men will want to hang on the coattails of your success in the hope of tearing a strip off for themselves.—Dramatic Mirror.

Solves the Mystery.

Frederick the Great and Music.

Frederick the Great was the most distinguished musical amateur of his age, and his position gave him the power to regulate the style of composition employed by the musicians of his period. For instance, he made the following rules to be followed by operatic composers: "All the principal singers must have big arias and different in character, as an adagio aria, which must be very cantabile to show off to good advantage the voice and delivery of the singer. In da capo the artist can then display her art in embellishing variations. Then there must be an allegro aria with brilliant passages, a gallant aria, a duet for the first male singer and the prima donna. In these pieces the big forms of measure must be used so as to give pathos to the tragedy. The smaller forms of time, such as two-four and three-eight, are for the secondary roles, and for these a tempo minuetto can be written. There must be the necessary changes of time, but minor keys must be avoided in the theater, because they are too mournful."—Argonaut.

Curious Pets.

During a visit to the outer Florida reef, away out on the very last sand bank that can, by courtesy, be called an island, I made the acquaintance of an old Indian fisherman, who had some of the most interesting pets it was ever my good fortune to see.

One was a large, red clawed hermit crab, that had taken up its home in an old fashioned, silver ornamented pipe, and at all hours of the day and night the clanking of the pipe could be heard, sometimes on the table, again on the wall, and often it would roll off and fall with a crash upon the floor, and then there would be a silence for awhile, until, perhaps, the hermit recovered from its surprise and astonishment.

The hermit was thoroughly a house pet, and no sooner did he venture beyond the door than he was in danger of being snapped up by two other pets—one a man-of-war hawk and the other a gray pelican.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Story of Van Speyck.

In "Holland of the Dutch" Demetrius Boulger retells as one of Holland's heroic episodes the story of Van Speyck.

"It was during the Belgian revolution, when General Chasse held possession of the citadel of Antwerp and a Dutch squadron held the scheldt and secured his communications with Holland. In February, 1831, during a heavy gale a Dutch gunboat went adrift and grounded near the river bank. The Belgians determined to secure what seemed an easy prize and boarded the boat. The young commander, Lieutenant Van Speyck, had only thirty-one men under him. There were several hundred Belgians, and resistance was really out of the question, but he refused to haul down his flag. He opened the door of his magazine, and as the assailants rushed to seize him he fired his pistol into the powder, and the ship was blown to pieces with nearly every one on board."

The Smallest Golf Course.

What is probably the smallest golf course in existence is to be found on the May, the rocky islet which lies on the north side of the mouth of the firth of Forth, some five miles south of Crail, on the coast of Fifeshire. The island is about a mile in length and two and one-half furlongs in breadth and has a surface of rather more than 160 acres, but as a large part of it is unplayable for one reason or another the course consists of only three holes. To make the "round" it is necessary to play the course six times. The distance between the holes, however, is considerable, and the links are decidedly difficult of negotiation. The best score is said to be seventy.—Pearson's Weekly.

Not Used to Sleepers.

The nervous old lady approached the porter in a sleeping car and asked:

"Oh, porter, where do I sleep?"

"What's the numbah ob youah berth, ma'am?" he asked.

She looked at him questioningly for a minute and then replied, "I don't see what that has to do with it, but if you must know, it is third; there was a brother and sister born before me."—Exchange.

Ought to Know.

Manager—The critics say that in the play "A Wronged Wife" you do not exhibit enough emotion when your husband leaves you, never to return. Popular Actress—Oh, I don't, don't I? Well, I've had two or three husbands leave me, never to return, and I guess I know as much about how to act in those circumstances as anybody.—London Tit-Bits.

Eyeglass Screws.

If the tiny screws that hold your eyeglass lenses in place will not stay tightened and you are far away from a jeweler, tighten them with a penknife and drop a bit of glue on them. When this hardens, the screws will not loosen for many weeks.—Exchange.

A Misapprehension.

"I like to see Mrs. de Style enter a room. She has such a fine carriage."

"Law, she don't drive it into people's houses, does she?"—Baltimore American.

Force of Habit.

"How is it you can so easily tell a married man in any assemblage?"

"By the way he listens."—Baltimore American.

To do just one thing at a time has led many a harassed soul into quietness and order and rest.

The diameter of the moon is estimated to be 2162 miles.

One Hundred Varieties of Marble.

Although Vermont occupies only a small space on the map when compared with the great area of some of the other states of the Union, yet its mineral resources are very important. This little state leads the world in the production of marble and granite, and the deposits apparently are inexhaustible. The greatest center of the marble industry of the world is in the vicinity of Rutland, Vt., particularly at Proctor and West Rutland, while the greatest center of the granite industry of the world is in and around Barre and Hardwick, Vt.

Although twenty-six states furnish marble, Vermont supplies about 70 per cent of the finer grades suitable for monumental work and statuary. This state furnishes 41 per cent of all the building marble used in this country, and the demand for this kind of stone is increasing. There are about a hundred varieties of marble quarried in Vermont, ranging from the purest white, suitable for statuary, to jet black.—Walter H. Crockett in National Magazine.

Seventeenth Century Civility.

If the seventeenth century Englishman failed in his manners it was not for want of instruction. "The Rules of Civility," a book published in 1675, contains the following hints on good behavior: "Being in discourse with a man, 'tis no less than ridiculous to pull him by the Buttons, to play with the Bandstrings, Belt or Cloak; or to punch him now and then on the Stomach! 'tis a pleasant sight, and well worthy of laughter, to see him that is so punch, fall back, and retire; whilst the other, insensible of his absurdity, pursues and presses him into some corner, where he is at last glad to cry quarter, before his comrade perceives he is in danger." And again: "It argues neglect, and to undervalue a man, to sleep when he is discoursing or reading; therefore good manners command it to be forbid; besides, something there may happen in the act that may offend, as snoring, sweating, gasping or dribbling."

Somersault by Aeroplane.

Captain Aubry of the French army accomplished a complete somersault while aboard an aeroplane high above the earth. "I was returning after a thirty-five minute flight," the captain said, "facing a wind of about twenty-two miles per hour. My altitude was about 2,500 feet. At the moment of descent a series of violent gusts struck the machine. As I dipped the nose of the machine a couple of quick gusts struck the top of the main planes and placed me in a vertical position. While endeavoring to manipulate the elevator I found the machine had taken me in a perfectly vertical chute to less than 1,500 feet. It here adopted a horizontal attitude upside down and proceeded to effect a tail first volplane." Continuing, he said: "The machine then gradually took up the vertical position again, describing a gigantic 'S' while doing so. Flattening out, I flew to a spot about two miles distant."

Corrected the Inspector.

In a police court an inspector was giving evidence of the arrest of the prisoner. "I went to No. 27," he said importantly, in a dignified staccato fashion that came from long practice, "where I saw the prisoner in bed. I said, 'I have a warrant for your arrest for burglariously entering the premises at' "— and so on. At the end of the inspector's evidence the magistrate asked the prisoner, "Any questions?" "Yes, sir," said the prisoner, and he intimated that the inspector had not given his evidence correctly. "I'm sure," he said, "Mr. Jackson," the inspector, "don't want to say only what is true. Didn't you come to my room," turning to the inspector, "and say, 'Now, then, Ginger, 'op out of it—I want yer?' "—London Mail.

Iron Mold Stains.

Iron mold stains spread in any fabric they come in contact with in the wash. To remove them stretch the stained part over a basin nearly full of boiling water so that the steam may penetrate the fabric and apply with a feather a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a dessertspoonful of lemon juice. When the marks disappear dip the material well into the hot water; afterward rinse very thoroughly in cold water.—Exchange.

In the Same Boat.

"Sir, could you give me a little assistance?" said the weary wayfarer. "I don't know where my next meal is coming from."

Thumbs Down.

The turning down of the thumbs in the old Roman games did not signify death. There was no such sign. To signify that the spectators desired the death of the vanquished gladiator the fist, with the thumb hidden inside it, was turned down.

A Face and an Offense.

Captain—If I see your face in my house again I shall slap it. Noble Foreigner—Ah, but it ees a punishable offense! Captain—Of course it is. That is why I want to slap it.—Judge.

Quaint Description.

Little Elsie, sitting in a street car opposite a man with twitching eyelids, whispered to her mother, "Mamma, that poor man has the hiccups in his eyes."—Boston Transcript.

Modern Dances Just What We Need to Offset Our :: Ease and Overeating ::

By Dr. L. K. HIRSHBERG, Johns Hopkins University

SUPERCILIOUS sponsors for human frailty, vice crusading custodians of other people's conduct, the self elected archangels of militant morality, are wont to warn you—and me particularly—to go to the ant, consider his plodding, stereotyped, routine, humdrum ways and be wise. For such as they the cello cadenzas of the sky larking grasshopper, going on his light fantastic way, is a hissing and a mocking. They will have none of him. All the human IMITATORS OF THE HAPPY, DANCING HOPPER are beyond the pale to these grim visaged Puritans.

Yet there is neither method nor logic in the dementia of these mad mullahs of morality. There is still less reason in their sham hygienic strictures. Not only is dancing a virtue and an apotheosis of innocence, but it is in its newer dispensations or rhythmic motions the GREATEST EXPONENT OF THE NEW HEALTH that has ever germinated in our dropsical soil.

NOT ONLY ARE THE TRIPPING TANGO, THE FELICITOUS ONE STEP OR TURKEY TROT, THE UNAFFECTED BALANCE WALTZ, THE BOSTON, SO NAMED; THE ATTIC ARGENTINE, THE POLISHED BOSTON SCHOTTISCHE AND THAT MOST GRACEFUL AND PRETTIEST OF ALL DANCES, THE SPANISH SCHOTTISCHE, THE GREATEST DEVICES FOR ENCOURAGING HEALTH, BUT THEY ARE EXACTLY WHAT THE PONDEROUS, OVEREATING, AUTO RIDING, NON-EXERCISING AMERICAN NEEDED TO PREVENT HIS DECADENCE.

IN HOLIDAY SPIRIT

By BARBARA BOYD

The Day After Christmas

Now will we smell to heaven with sachets, toilet waters and French extracts, and leave in our wake a trail of perfume that will speak as eloquently of Christmas as violets do of Spring.

* * *

Now will we see meek little men trying to carry through with a jaunty and nonchalant air, the ordeal of walking down the principal thoroughfare of their town wearing a brilliant red necktie or one of the most vivid Scotch plaids.

* * *

Now do we go forth on a day when the sky is cloudless bearing the gold handled umbrella our best friend gave us, and every little while scanning the heavens as though we knew without doubt it would soon rain in torrents.

* * *

Now do we see slender maidens promenading in low shoes, and when ever the slightest excuse offers itself, lifting their skirts that every one may see and envy the beautiful silk hoisery that is theirs, by reason of the Christmas season.

* * *

Now do our hands shine in resplendent new gloves, and even do we forego a muff on the bitterest day that we may show the handsome handwear that came with the coming of Christmas.

* * *

Now do we execrate the warm days that come, and go forth even though the temperature is that of May as we perspire as in a heat wave, wrapped in the fur coat "hubby" gave us.

* * *

Now do we empty our purse and borrow from our friends for theatre and opera tickets, in order to show off the evening wrap Santa Claus put into our stocking.

* * *

Now do we invite pneumonia wearing the thin, filmy blouse hailing from Paris that Santa Claus was good enough to leave with us.

* * *

Now do we move about all possible in order that the frou frou of our new silk petticoat may be audible to all ears.

* * *

Now doth it become necessary every few minutes to know the time of day in order to make sure the new watch we received has not stopped or run away.

* * *

Now doth the girl who received a diamond solitaire find it necessary to arrange her hair and neckwear quite frequently especially when her dearest friend is present.

* * *

Now do we tell our friends with an auto what a beautiful new motoring hood we received and how vastly becoming it is to us.

* * *

Now do we find it necessary to call upon all our friends in order to give adequate use to the beautiful new handbag and cardcase we received.

* * *

Now do we suddenly discover that our health requires a week-end at a nearby resort, in order that the smart new travelling bag that is ours is exhibited to an admiring public.

* * *

Now do we do many unusual and peculiar things which, at ordinary times, would cause our friends to wonder if our mind was not slightly affected, but which now are looked upon indulgently because it is Christmas and everybody is doing them.

Is Very Ill.
Mr. Harvey Wise, a well known farmer residing east of Newark, is reported as being critically ill with heart trouble. Dr. Harry Postle is the attending physician.

Christmas at Fairmount.
A splendid Christmas program was rendered at the Fairmount Presbyterian church by members of the Sunday school Wednesday evening. Presents were distributed to the children.

Four Christmas Arrests.
As an aftermath of their Christmas celebration four drunks were taken into custody by the police. Two were committed to jail in default of fine. One paid the fine and costs assessed and another paid the costs, his fine being suspended.

Distributes Candy.
According to an annual custom Dr. F. H. Cosner on Christmas day distributed oranges and candies to a number of poor children of the city. About 75 bags of candies and fruit were given out by the doctor to the children who called at his office.

Free Orpheum Tickets.
For the convenience of the persons whose names appear in the classified columns as being entitled to Orpheum Theater tickets, the Advocate has arranged to have the tickets presented at the box office in the Orpheum Theater. Heretofore the people have been obliged to call first at the Advocate office. Now they may go direct to the Orpheum box office for their free tickets. Is your name printed today.

Closed for Three Days.
The Wehrle company closed down its plant Wednesday night for three days. The employes will be given a vacation until next Monday when work will be resumed.

Fruit for Prisoners.
The county jail and the city prison were visited by Salvation Army Workers, Mrs. and Miss Martha Watkins. Apples and oranges and copies of the "War Cry" were distributed among the prisoners.

Purchases New Home.
Dr. Cary F. Legge has purchased the Blood home in Hudson avenue formerly owned by Mr. George Blood. The home is being redecorated and prepared for occupancy on January 15. Dr. Legge has sold his home in North Fourth street to Mr. White of the A. L. Rawling Music company.

Friday the Twenty-sixth.
If the thirteenth is unlucky, then twice thirteen must be doubly unfortunate. Today is the twenty-sixth, and a Friday, which gives to the hoodoo a triple significance. Greeting from Soldiers' Home.
Mr. Robert Wallace, of the Sandusky Soldiers' Home is spending the holidays with friends in Newark and Granville. He brings Christmas greetings from an old friend of the editor of the Advocate, Mr. W. M. Hall, of Holmes county, whose life has always been on lines to make his fellows happy. Here's hoping that all the old veterans of the Sandusky Home are enjoying this Yuletide.

25 YEARS AGO

(From Advocate, Dec. 26, 1888.)

Dr. and Mrs. William Baldwin attended the Pierce-Hutson wedding at Granville last night.

Messrs. Harry and Guy Newton are here from Columbus visiting their uncle, H. D. Woodbridge.

Misses Gyp and Jo Fulton, Alice Fleek, Kate Wilson and Bessie Dean left today for Coshocton to attend a large dance given at the McDonald house tonight.

Prof. S. L. Beeney will spend a part of this week visiting in Pittsburg.

Miss Celia Hower was awarded the silver cake basket at the Opera House last night.

Mr. Charles Murphy and Miss Lizzie Faller of Thornport were united in marriage Monday night.

Mrs. Steve P. Meyer of Valandingham street is suffering with a broken shoulder.

Miss Ida Shofner of Tennessee and Mr. Jacob C. Prendle, proprietor of the St. Charles Hotel in this city were married last Sunday.

Fifty Years Ago Today.
Dec. 26.

The United States ironclad Dictator launched in New York. In size and equipment the Dictator was the finest construction to her date. She was 320 feet long, 52 feet broad and 22 feet in depth. Her plating was 10½ inches, backed by 4 feet of oak. Guns 13 inch, using a charge of 100 pounds of powder. Horsepower, 5,000. The iron ram extended 15 feet from the prow. The Dictator was five times as large as the original Monitor.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

French Panama canal shares dropped $4 in Paris. Two thousand canal laborers were discharged, leaving 9,000 at work.

English Harvest Feasts.

The feasts that now take place at the close of the harvest season in England are small affairs compared with the old fashioned harvest suppers held formerly. In some of the northern counties the farmers would give churns of cream, and it was served out in cups to the laborers. Nowadays a glass of ale or cider is the substitute for the old time feast. In some parts of the north of Ireland the ancient custom still lingers as "the churn supper." A very old custom is the baking of a large cake by the farmer's wife. This is cut up and served out to every one, including children, accompanying the "horkey cart" into the farmyard. The "horkey cart" was the cart on which the last load of the season was drawn to the farm.—London Answers.

Distinctive Dress In England.

At Coutts' bank the clerical assistants must all wear frock coats, and no one in the employment of the bank is allowed to go about with his trousers turned up. At Hoare's bank it is the custom of all those employed to wear white ties. Members of the legal profession observe the etiquette of their calling by abstaining from the wearing of light or fancy colored clothes and always wear silk hats. The beadles of some Presbyterian churches in England wear dress suits instead of the Anglican cassock. Some brewers' workmen and draymen wear scarlet knitted wool nightcaps. In fact nearly every trade and profession has its own conventions and unwritten laws concerning the dress of its members.—London Globe.

The forest service maintains experiment stations for studies in reforestation and similar subjects.

A bee balances will fly 10 miles an hour, but one coming home laden with honey does not travel faster than 12 miles an hour.

Snapdragon and Halloween.

Many of our Halloween customs come to us from England and Scotland, and a most popular one is called the "snapdragon," which is brought in when refreshments are served, generally at the last before leaving the table. The lights are all turned out and the platter containing the snapdragon is brought in. Why it is thus named I know not, but it is made this way: Place large table raisins quite closely and evenly on the platter, sprinkle with salt and cover with good alcohol. Just before bringing in light the alcohol and a most ghastly greenish white light will be the result. Pass it around the table, and each guest is to try to grab a raisin from the flame. Now, don't ask me why and wherefore regarding this strange custom, for I do not know; only, my earliest recollections of a Halloween party, and I regret to say that it is many years ago, we had a snapdragon, and an English lady told me how to make it. Sometimes ghost stories are told while the dragon burns on the table.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Goethe and Stage Animals.

Goethe severed his connection with the Weimar theater owing to the appearance of an animal on the stage. For twenty-seven years he ruled there as a despotic director. "The direction," he wrote to his chief assistant, "acts according to its own views and not in the least according to the demands of the public. Once for all understand that the public must be controlled." When at length he forbade any expressions of approval or disapproval on the part of his public only the court and the Jena students continued to attend the theater.

The crash came when Duke Karl August invited an actor who had scored heavily with a performing poodle in "The Dog of Montargis" to play at Weimar. After the first rehearsal he declined to have anything more to do with a theater the boards of which had been desecrated by the presence of an animal.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Nose Tip Vaccination.

The young Japanese diplomat pointed to his father, the marquis.

"That's father," he said, "the old fellow with the saucer shaped scar on the tip of his nose. All Japs of the older generation have that scar."

"Yes?" said the debutante.

"Yes, it's a vaccination mark. In the old days, when compulsory vaccination first began, we Japs vaccinated everybody on the tip of the nose. Why? Well, because it was a good place, where there's no movement to rub off the scab, and also because a vaccination scar on the nose was easily identified by the medical officers of the government. A man didn't have to take off half his clothes in order to prove that he'd been vaccinated.

"Yes, the nose tip vaccination had its good points, but before the modern hankering after beauty it had to go."—New York Tribune.

Solid Granite.

The inquisitive traveler kept poking his head out of the window of the car to the great annoyance of the conductor who several times stopped to warn him against the danger. At length he tapped the careless one on the shoulder and said:

"Pardon me, but this time I must insist that you withdraw your head."

"Why?"

"Oh," said the conductor, nettled, "we are coming to a bridge, and I don't want any of the girders damaged by your head."

And then the head came in.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Japan Censors Books.

In Japan the censorship of novels is not exercised by the libraries, but by a government official who is empowered to prosecute offending authors as well as forbid the sale of their books. Not long ago the author of a Japanese novel called "The Great City" was brought before the courts for giving too realistic a description of life in Tokyo. His counsel used the old arguments about the indefensible rights of literature and the ennobling of everything by art. But the case was given against the author. Even some of Moliere's works have been forbidden to circulate in Japan, the ground of offense being the lack of respect shown by wives toward their husbands and by sons toward their fathers.

High Finance.

"Neddy is an awfully good natured fellow, but he has one failing. You can always touch him for a loan, but if you lend him some money he invariably forgets to repay it."

"I know, old top. Whenever he owes me some money I never ask him to repay it. I just borrow it back in installments. And listen"—

"Yes."

"I've overdrawn my account $10."—New York Sun.

Splinters and Finger Nails.

When a splinter gets under a finger nail it is often very hard to draw out. In such a case if a cold water bandage is put round the top of the finger and then kept wet and cold it will in time both draw out splinter and keep the finger from festering.

India's Light Winds.

In over five-sixths of the territory of India the wind forces are not strong enough to specially encourage the use of windmills.

Bonnets are almost unknown in Mexico, even among wealthy ladies.

A farmers' union is in process of formation in the west of Scotland.

"A Very Monstrous Great Ship."

In her "Life of James IV," Miss L. A. Taylor says that James was untiring in his efforts toward the realization of a good Scottish fleet. In 1511 the building of the St. Michael, "a very monstrous great ship," was completed. "All the woods in Fife, save one, had been laid waste to build her," and material was also imported from Norway. According to Lindsay, this wonder ship, which was 240 feet long and 36 broad, "cumbered all Scotland to get her to the sea." Her sides were ten feet thick within walls of oak, and she cost the king, all told, some £40,000. He paid her daily visits when she lay in the roads, often dining and supping on board, and exhibiting her to the lords and ladies he brought with him. Henry VIII. was covetous of her, but when the singular request was preferred that James "would grant Henry the loan of the apple of his eye, the great St. Michael, the king's reply was to the effect that if he would make peace with France he might command all his ships." Six months after their king's death the Scottish government sold this desirable ship to Louis XII.

A Mystery of Diplomacy.

Of disappearances, most mysterious was the case of Benjamin Bathurst, who vanished on Nov. 25, 1809, while engaged on a secret mission for the British foreign office. Vienna was the young diplomatist's objective and, with a friend and valet in a post-chaise, Perleberg, a small posting town in North Germany, had been reached. Here Bathurst supped and slept, awaiting the arrival of fresh horses. Waking, he asked if the horses were ready and passed out of the inn door to make inquiries. Eight people saw him go out, but none ever set eyes on him again. Various theories were set afoot—Napoleon's spies, robbers, illness. About three years ago, in the forest near Perleberg, a skeleton was discovered with a hole in the skull as from a heavy blunt instrument. Was it that of "the English lord," as Perleberg people surmised?—London Tatler.

The Illegible Writer.

A protest which Michelangelo once made to his nephew against his sending letters in illegible handwriting will arouse a great deal of sympathy in the breast of modern sufferers from the same form of rudeness. It is contained in a letter given in the "Life of Michelangelo."

"I never receive a letter from you without being thrown into a fever before I can read it. I am at a loss to know where you learnt how to write! Little love here! I believe if you had to write to the biggest ass in the world you would take greater care. I threw your last letter into the fire because I could not read it. I cannot therefore reply. I have already told you, and constantly repeated, that every time I get a letter from you fever attacks me before I succeed in reading it."

Insurance and Assurance.

They were talking, the little group of agents, about the words insurance and assurance, some claiming that the first and some that the second was the better word to use.

But with a scornful laugh a Boston agent in gold rimmed spectacles said:

"You are all very ignorant. Insurance is no better and no worse than assurance. Each has a special significance, and each is equally good in its place. The place for assurance is where precaution is taken against a certainty—against, that is, death. Life assurance, we should say if we spoke with perfect correctness. The place for insurance is where precaution is taken against an uncertainty, such as fire, shipwreck, burglary. Fire insurance, marine insurance, we should say."—Exchange.

When Macaulay Was a Boy.

At one period of his boyhood Macaulay's fancy was much exercised by the threats and terrors of the law. He had a little plot of ground at the back of the house marked out as his own by a row of oyster shells, which a maid one day threw away as rubbish. He went straight to the drawing room, where his mother was entertaining some visitors, walked into the circle and said very solemnly, "Cursed be Sally, for it is written, 'Cursed is he that removeth his neighbor's landmark.'"—From G. O. Trevelyan's "Life of Macaulay."

Considerate.

Clubleigh (at midnight)—My wife is very ill, and the doctor says she must have no sudden shock. Clinton—Then what are you doing here at the club at this hour? Clubleigh—I'm afraid to go home before the usual time lest I give her a shock.—Boston Transcript.

Thoughtful Husband.

She—Are you wearing those pretty suspenders I gave you for your birthday, George? He—No, dear; I was afraid the nail I'm using as a button would rust 'em.—Yonkers Statesman.

A Caution.

"Darling, I will tell you in poetry of burning meter that you are the light of my life."

"All right, but don't do it with the gas meter."—Baltimore American.

Easy Work.

He (bitterly)—I suppose you consider it quite a triumph to make a fool of a man? She—Oh, dear, no! A triumph is something done that was difficult of achievement.

Making Connection.

Knicker—Life is hard. Bocker—Yes; by the time your mother stops forbidding you to eat jam the doctor begins.—New York Sun.

Portugal has a total population of 5,423,132, of whom 2,288,782 are rural.

The Courts

Administrator Sale.

A petition was filed in Common Pleas court late Wednesday afternoon by Attorneys Smythe & Smythe for John W. Hornby, against Benjamin F. Wells as administrator of the estate of Cora Wells, deceased.

The plaintiff alleges that the estate of Cora Wells is indebted to him for the sum of $304.75, with the interest that has accrued since August 14, 1913.

Says Money Wasn't Paid.

As counsel for Maude Moore against William M. Moore and the B. O. relief department, Attorneys Smythe & Smythe filed a petition in Common Pleas court Wednesday afternoon.

The plaintiff alleges that on October 19, 1912, she recovered a judgment against the defendant in Probate court for the sum of $20, which amount was to be paid her on the 19th of October and every succeeding month, also $25 for lawyer fees. The plaintiff testified that the payments had not been made by the defendant and that the total sum now due her amounted to $275. Also it was alleged that the defendant possessed no property but that there was $200, due the defendant from the B. & O. Railroad relief department. The plaintiff wishes that the aforesaid department be made a defendant in the case.

Chicago Grain Situation.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Chicago, Dec. 26.—General snow or rain over much of the winter crop belt made today's wheat market easy. The production and moisture given combined with the absence of any severe cold and with slightly increased receipts northwest appeared to leave no encouragement for the bulls. In addition, there were complaints from millers that flour trade was in a semi-demoralized condition. Prices after opening unchanged to ⅛ lower suffered a moderate all around decline.
Although corn started firm owing to the unsettled weather, the market later developed heaviness because of advices that notwithstanding the weather, a liberal movement from the country promised to last for some time. Quotations which at the outset were unchanged to ¼ higher, were followed by a sag to sell under the previous cost.
Oats turned weak with corn. Business was only of a scanty kind.
Provisions showed a little strength in the hog market. First sales which were almost wholly confined to ribs, indicated an advance of 5 cents.

Good Bowels Are An Aid to Growth

Growing Children Need a Mild Laxative to Foster Regular Bowel Movement.

MARIE DEY.

As a child grows older it requires more and more personal attention from the mother, and as the functions of the bowels are of the utmost importance to health, great attention should be paid to them.

Diet is of great importance, and the mother should watch the effect of certain foods. A food will constipate one and not another, and so we have a healthy food like eggs causing billiouness to thousands, and a wholesome fruit like bananas constipating many. It is also to be considered that the child is growing, and great changes are taking place in the young man or young woman. The system has not yet settled itself to its later routine.

A very valuable remedy at this stage, and one which every growing boy and girl should be given often or occasionally, according to the idividual circumstances, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a laxative and tonic combined so mild that it is given to little babies, and yet equally effective in the most robust constitution. At the first sign of constipation give a small dose of Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and prompt action will follow in the morning. It not only acts on the somach and bowels but its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system generally, which is an opinion shared by Mr. John Dey, of Bloomfield, N. J. He has a large family and at ages where the growth and development must be watched. Little Marie has thrived especially well on Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. Dey considers it the right laxative for young and old and has found none better for young children.

The use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will teach you to avoid cathartics, salts and pills as they are too harsh for the majority and their effect is only temporary. Syrup Pepsin brings permanent results, and it can be conveniently obtained of any nearby druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

TAXICAB STOPS ON A CROSSING; TRAIN FLAGGED

A stalled taxi-cab held up a train on the Fifth street crossing on Christmas night.

The cab, owned bya local garage, was making a run taking a physician down on South Fifth street, and when crossing the tracks the engine died. A Pennsylvania train was just pulling out from the local station, and every effort was made to start the engine of the taxi. Finding it impossible and seeing the approaching train, they went forward and flagged the train bringing it to a dead stop. With the assistance of some of the tran crew the machine was pushed from the tracks. It had been impossible for the two men to move the machine owing to the ice.

First Things

The first important theatre fire in America was that which destroyed a playhouse in Richmond, Va., 102 years ago today. The Governor of the State and seventy other people, including many Virginians of prominence, lost their lives, and many more died later, of injuries received in the stampede which ended so tragically. The chief cause of the loss of life was that the doors opened inward, and became tightly closed by the pressure of the panic-stricken crowd. As the first event of its kind in America, the fire was long remembered with horror, and started the first movement for the adoption of means to prevent the repetition of such a calamity. Many ministers chose to believe that the catastrophe was a sign of divine condemnation of the theatre, and used the event as a text. There have been many other theatre conflagrations since the one which destroyed the Richmond playhouse, the fost notable having been the Brooklyn theatre fire of 1876, in which 295 lives were lost, and the Iroquois horror in Chicago, when 573 people, mostly women and children, were burned or trampled to death.

ATHENS MAN APPOINTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—Captain Samuel M. Johnson, of Athens, was appointed today by Governor Cox to membership on the state armory board to succeed Major Charles H. Bell, New Lexington, whose term has expired.

In 1912 more than 2000 miles of railway were constructed in British Columbia.

DEATH MESSAGE DARKENS HOME ON CHRISTMAS

Telegrams announcing the death of John A. Lee, aged 34 years, engineer of a switch engine, came to his relatives in this city in the midst of the Yuletide festivities. Mr. Lee was killed in the Michigan Central yards at Kensington, Ill., Thursday afternoon. Details of the accident were not received by the family. They expect to learn the facts from T. A. Bazler, of the undertaking firm of Bazler & Bradley, who was sent to Chicago to bring the body to Newark.

Cognizance of the death came from the undertaker who had charge of the body and from Harry Moore, the fireman, on Lee's engine.

Mr. Lee had been a railroader for the last 14 years. He is survived by his father, A. R. Lee, his mother, Mrs. J. H. King, two sisters, Bessie Lee and Mrs. S. S. Morrison, all of Newark, and one brother, Ben Lee of Portland, Oregon.

Today in Pugilistic Annals

1896—Kid McCoy knocked out Billy Doherty in the 9th round at Johannesburg, South Africa. This battle between the Hoosier middleweight and the African champion was a great sporting event, and fans gathered at Johannesburg from all over South Africa, and even from Australia. English officers and Boer officials and all the Americans in the country were there to cheer their favorites. The bout was for $5,000 a side and a slice of the receipts. Doherty was the favorite, and looked the better man in the ring, but after three rounds the odds favored the clever Hoosier, who fought rings around his clumsy antagonist. McCoy played with Doherty eight rounds, and then put over the sleep punch. Barney Barrato won a pile on McCoy, and offered to back him in England, but jumped overboard while on the way there.

1908—Jack McAuliffe knocked out Jake Hyams in the 8th round at Williamsburg, N. Y.

SIAMESE TWINS TO BE SEPARATED BY OPERATION

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Paris, Dec. 26.—"Siamese" twin girls, a month old, who are joined face to face by a strip of flesh more than an inch thick between their stomachs, have been brought to Paris to be separated by a surgical operation.

A radiograph examination suggests that the twins have no vital organs in common. They are so vigorous that they have been clothed in woolen vests inside which their arms are imprisoned to prevent possible injury to one or the other by their movements.

SCHOONER REPORTED WRECKED, IS SAFE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Dec. 26.—Wireless advices to the revenue cutter office early today from the United States steamship Seminole, reported the schooner Augusta W. Snow, Jacksonville to New York, safe.

The Seminole left Wilmington, N C., yesterday afternoon in response to a wireless message which stated that an unknown schooner, presumably the Snow was in distress off Diamond Shoals. The message today from the Seminole came en route from Cuba to Hampton Roads from the United States steamship Clark which did not give the position of the Snow.

FREE HAIRCUTS FOR INMATES OF CHILDREN'S HOME

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26.—Free haircuts were the unique Christmas gifts given 20 inmates of a home for friendless children here yesterday by three members of the Barbers union, Everett Walker, S. B. Robb and Nicholas Meyer. Having their locks clipped by real barbers in immaculate white coats was a new experience for the children, as was also the sequal of sweet smelling tonics.

The committee desires to publicly thank the newspapers, Prof. C. W. Klopp, Trinity Choir, The Buckeye Band, and all who contributed in any way, either through gratuitous services or cash contributions in making the affair a success. The committee would suggest that next year's celebration be on a larger scale than this year, and that the matter be taken up through some strong organization or by the municipality.

Human Procession

Admiral George Dewey, U. S. N., the hero of Manila, will celebrate his seventy-sixth birthday today, having been born in Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 26, 1837. The Admiral may claim membership in the "horse marines," for while his fame is based on his record as a sea fighter, and much of his mature life has been spent on board ship, he is a devoted and enthusiastic equestrian, and attributes his long life and good health to horseback riding.

"Let a man begin to ride early and continue it through his early years, and he will find that he has invested in something that will be a great asset to him later on," says the Admiral. "Driving is splendid, too, although not so good as riding. Getting lots of fresh air is the principal thing. I learned to ride early at my boyhood home in Vermont, and have kept on with the exercise, to my great benefit. Another thing that has helped me," he continued, "was the avoidance of banquets. I have never gone to more of them than I could help. There was a time when we used to go to banquets that laid us up for two or three days afterward, but I abandoned that folly long ago, and so should any man who wants to feel young though old."

Returning to the subject of horseback riding, Admiral Dewey said:

"I was out riding one day with George Bancroft, the historian, and asked him what gave him his splendid physical health. In answer he pointed to his horse. Riding does it," he said. He was then eighty years old. Bancroft was riding a single-footer, but I like a horse with a little more action, which shakes me up more."

The Admiral was a belated Christmas gift to Dr. Julius Yeamans and Mary Perrin Dewey. In his youth he was rather delicate, but horseback riding, he insists, was responsible for his development into a stalwart youth. He came of a long-lived family, one of his grandfathers living to be ninety. The future Admiral graduated from Annapolis Naval Academy in 1859, and at the outbreak of the Civil War was attached to the steam sloop Mississippi. Later he was in Farragut's squadron, and acquitted himself gallantly in the battles which gave Farragut possession of New Orleans. In the battle of Port Hudson the Mississippi lost her bearings and ran ashore under the guns of the Confederate land batteries, and Dewey and the other officers and men, after firing their boat, escaped in a hail of lead. After a long period of peace, the outbreak of the Spanish-American war found Mr. Dewey a commodore, in command of the Asiatic squadron. His immortal victory at Manila resulted in his immediate promotion to the rank of rear-admiral, and a little later he was made admiral of the United States navy and president of the General Board. In the latter capacity he has constantly preached the necessity of a greater navy for the United States, and the four battleship program was originated and sponsored by him. Admiral Dewey's definition of an adequate navy is that it should be second only to that of Great Britain.

"The only function and justification for the existence of a navy is the preservation of peace," declared the Admiral recently. "To perform this function the navy must be adequate to meet and defeat any probable enemy. At the present period adequacy on our part calls for a navy second in strength to that of England only." Evidently the American Admiral, remembering certain incidents in Manila Bay when "blood was thicker than water," is convinced that there will never be another war between English-speaking nations.

AND HE DID!

HEBRON.

The Men's Bible class of the M. E. church will give a reception to all members and friends of the church on the evening of Dec. 31. Everyone cordially invited.

An interesting program appropriate to yuletide was rendered by the Sunday school of the Church of Christ Sunday evening and on Tuesday evening the M. E. Sunday school had a fine program.

Mrs. F. H. Kirk was hostess to the Priscilla club Wednesday with ten members present. A delicious two-course lun heon was served. On Wednesday, Dec. 31, the club will meet with Mrs. S. H. Rosebrough and on the evening of Jan. 2nd the ladies will banquet their husbands at the home of Mrs. T. M. White on West Main street.

B. T. Burch, J. H. Myer and J. T. Kirk attended the M. E. conference at Columbus last week.

Geo. H. Burch, formerly traveling salesman for Swisher Bros. of Newark, but now with the Green Cigar Co. of London, O., was calling on old friends here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Kirk and two children spent Sunday with J. T. Kirk and family.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Rosebrough entertained on Christmas day with a family dinner.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Dora Walters in the loss of their only daughter, Gladys, who was an exceptionally bright child. The funeral, which occurred Tuesday, was largely attended.

Mrs. Scott Burden, who was called to St. Mary's on account of the death of her mother, returned home this week.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baugher, a daughter, Tuesday evening.

Prof. Coler of Philadelphia, is spending his vacation here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Burch will entertain with a family dinner on Christmas day.

Mrs. Harry Musselman of White Chapel was a guest of Mrs. Ora Green Monday.

Theaters

Christmas Concert.

An exceptionally small crowd greeted Cincinnes Band at both the matinee and in the evening when the band played at the Auditorium Thursday. So small was the crowd that it is doubtful if over one hundred people heard the program. The work of the band was creditable and would have justified a better support. The inclement weather and Yuletide festivities may be assigned as reasons for the small audience.

An entirely different program was presented in the evening from the one presented in the afternoon. The selections of both the evening and the afternoon were fairly equal in quality and in quantity. Some of the more popular selections of the afternoon were, the overture from "Semiramide", a selection from "Carmen", and several "Rennicks Hits". In the evening selections from "William Tell", "Summer", and "Linda", were among the numbers from operas that were enthusiastically encored.

Both of the programs were varied by vocal solos. Signor C. Duetcher tenor, sang "Somebody Loves You Dear" in the afternoon and "Loves Messengers" in the evening. Edna Fox Zirkel rendered "The Flower Girl" at the matinee and "Summer" in the evening. Both possess exceptional voices and were encored at each performance. Better voices are seldom heard here.

East Lynne.

What Alice Coon Brown said in the Ohio State Journal, Dec. 12:

"As long as it had to come, let us be glad that it is filmed this year. No; not carned, for the movie version of "East Lynne" is really a very enjoyable entertainment, much more enjoyable than the other East Lynnes we have seen in recent years, enacted by poor actors in the popular priced theaters.

"For the movie production, the drama has been acted in real English scenes by a good company of English actors, who have been very successful in preserving the old-time atmosphere. Not only the clothes, but the manners are early Victorian. And during the action of the piece the most sentimental of old-time songs are played by the orchestra—"Then You'll Remember Me," "Ben Bolt," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," etc. Between acts one and two there was a song, charmingly given by Miss Viola Foote, a young Cincinnati singer, who was a pleasant surprise. She has a beautiful voice, well trained, and for the latter attribute she gives credit to a little gold medal from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

"There was a large audience last night, and there will no doubt continue to be large attendance for the remainder of the week. There is still a big demand for sentiment in the theatrical market; and "East Lynne" is still ready to supply it in abundance, together with a goodly portion of sentimentality. The pictures are remarkably clear, and the outdoor scenes are especially pleasing."

ALICE COON BROWN.

The same as presented at the Hartman will be the attraction at the Auditorium, Saturday and Sunday matinee and night.

Good as Ever.

Al G. Field has never presented a mediocre entertainment, years ago when he blazed the path for modern minstrelsy, he emphatically declared that he would never attach his name to an entertainment that he would have to apologize for. This promise has been faithfully kept from the initial entree of the famous company bearing his name. He recognizes no opposition nor competitors, for the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels outstripping the efforts of the making, superior to any similar organization striving to elevate modern and progressive minstrelsy. Each year sees the Al. G. Field Minstrels outstriping the efforts of the preceeding year, with novelties scenic and effects electrical, and a magnificent company to interpret new ideas and laughable burlesques. This year he presents another new show, promising that it will eclipse anything he has offered heretofore.

At Auritorium Tuesday matinee and night, December 30.

"The Confession."

From a most successful run at the Broadway Bijou Theater, New York City comes James Hallocks Reid's powerful drama, "The Confession" to be the offering at the Auditorium, New Years, Matinee and night.

The story though easy of synopical presentation, demanding intricate development of character and environments to build up a suitable foundation for a play that is to leave a lasting impression.

In the hands of the company as eminently capable company as the following it is small wonder that "The Confession" is making itself one of the greatest demands of the day.

Mr. Richard Sterling, who has been commended during the past two seasons for his beautiful rendition of the leading role. Mr. Bowd Turner, later of the Otis Skinner "Kismet" company, Mr. Charles Canfield, late of the "Ben Hur" Company; Mr. Frank Campbella, late of the Arizona Company, Miss Janes Stokes who is making her first appearance in the states having recently come from Australia. Mr. William Sheehan, late of the Tom Murphy Company.

MORE ABOUT THE 1914 MONEY CLUB

The big vital purpose of the CHRISTMAS MONEY CLUB is to provide everybody with an ample supply of CHRISTMAS MONEY. The plan is so delightfully simple and the sums involved are so small that it is a pleasure to provide for them and it becomes a growing wonder that these small sums deposited in the bank could bring such large returns at Christmas time. And everyone is eligible for membership. It is to be a big cosmopolitan club, made up of professional and business men, mechanics, clerks, school teachers, husbands and wives, boys and girls, and just plain people. This is where we all get together for one big purpose—to open a bank account that will grow, and GROW, and GROW.

It is For You to Decide as to How Large a Check we Are to Give You at Christmas

HOW ABOUT FIFTY OR A HUNDRED DOLLARS?

Suppose you take out two memberships, one with the largest payment 96 cents the first week and decreasing two cents each week, and the other membership with the smallest first (two cents) and increasing two cents each week. Your total weekly payment would then be 98 cents and you would have at Christmas $47.04.

You may start the payment with two cents increasing two cents each week—the last payment will be 96 cents and the amount you will receive December 15th will be $23.52. Or you may reverse the payments making, 96 cents the first week and decreasing two cents each week, the check will be the same $23.52.

Let Us Know The Amount You Want at Christmas and We Will Arrange the Payments to Suit You.

BETTY'S NEW YEAR'S PARTY

By MARJORIE HOPE

Copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.

BETTY was impatiently waiting for Jack to come home. He would love the hurt away and be sorry, too, and Jack's arms could make up for a good deal. They had not been married more than two years, and she was thinking— But, oh, there he was!

"Jack, I can't get my dress."

"Why not, sweetheart?"

"They won't give me any more credit. Oh, I am so tired of this poverty. I want lots of money. I want my dress so much. I begged them so hard to let me have it. I—I—th-think it's—s-s-so mean"— Choking back her sobs, she turned to Jack for comfort.

Jack pushed her away sharply. "Sometimes I think you haven't any pride. But, if you have none for yourself, for heaven's sake have some for me."

"But aren't you sorry, Jack?" She looked wistfully into the angry face of her husband. She wanted to be loved.

"Of course I am sorry—sorry that you made such a fool of yourself." With which speech he left the house.

* * * * * * *

Late that night, returning, he sought Betty, penitent and ashamed of himself. She was in their sitting room reading. Going up to her, he knelt down and put his arms around her, but she sprang up, cold and angry. "Oh, when you are ready to be nice I am to forget that when I wanted you to be so you had made other arrangements for your disposition for the evening."

"I FORBID YOU TO LEAVE THE HOUSE TONIGHT."

"Betty, I am awfully sorry. I was a cad. But do be a good little girl and kiss and forgive."

"Of course I will forgive you, but I don't want to be kissed, thank you just the same. You should show more discretion in the distribution of your kisses. You are a trifle too—what do they call it in the streets?—'slushy,' you know, Jack. Good night."

"Just a minute, Elizabeth. Since you consider that I am too 'slushy' with you I will thank you to let me know the next time you wish any demonstration of affection on the part of your husband. In the meantime I will refrain from troubling you."

Consequently in the ensuing months, although they kept up a semblance of good feeling, they were cold and extravagantly indifferent on the surface to each other's affairs. Jack was always too busy to take Betty to the few entertainments which their little town afforded and to which she wanted to go, so she had been thrown on the society of a friend of her husband's, Don Monroe, which condition her husband silently resented.

On New Year's eve Betty remarked at dinner:

"The Williamses are having a midnight supper tonight to watch the old year—such as it has been—out. The invitations came by phone this afternoon, hours 11 to 2."

"I am sorry I cannot take you"—

"Oh," she interrupted, "I have given up counting on you to do anything for me. Don is going to take me."

"Guess again, little girl of mine."

"What do you mean?" she cried, rising from the table. "Have you any particular objection to my having a good time? You certainly give that impression."

"I have a good many objections to your going out at midnight with a man who is not your husband, much as you might like him to be, and returning home in the early hours of the morning. You cannot go."

After reading two hours Betty placed a marker in her book and rose. Jack looked up.

"Where are you going?"

"To get dressed for the supper."

Her husband sprang up, flushing angrily. "I tell you you are not going out with Monroe tonight. Can I put it any clearer?"

"And suppose I won't stay home?"

"I'll make you stay."

"How, pray?"

"Oh, if necessary, I am strong."

"I understand. I suppose you could beat me into submission if"—

"Oh, Betty, Betty!" he cried, covering his face in horror that she should so have misunderstood him. "Oh, girlie, how could you?"

At his cry all the long pentup love in Betty was momentarily released, and, running up to him, she pulled his hands down.

"Betty is sorry she said that, Jack. She did not mean it. Please, please forgive her, will you?" But he did not kiss her, plead as her eyes did for the caress. This rebuff rather cooled her burst of affection, and she said, "But I am going, just the same."

Her husband laughed softly and, stooping, picked her up in his arms and, walking back to his chair, sat down with his burden and resumed his reading, holding her the while just tight enough to prevent her escape.

"Here you will remain until after the hour for your meeting with Monroe. By the way, what time were you to meet him and where?"

"Eleven-thirty at the corner," she replied quietly. To tell the honest truth, Betty seemed to like this method of prevention. While she would not have given in to his commands, she did not object to being forced to do so.

Suddenly the book fell to the floor, and Jack's hand that had been holding it gently tilted Betty's face back, and he caught the tears and the tenderness. Biting his lips to keep back the longing to kiss away the tears, he tightened his hold on her and with his head thrown back and away from her was soon in the Land of Nod, all forgetful of New Year's eve suppers and "eleven-thirty at the corner."

* * * * * * *

About a quarter to 12 Betty stood in their pretty little dining room, putting the finishing touches to a dainty supper set for two. Quite satisfied that everything was in order, she turned toward the sitting room, to encounter a pale face and frightened eyes.

Slowly taking in the sight before him and also the time, 11:45, his face flushed. "Forgive me, Betty," holding out his arms, into which she came. "I had a few nasty suspicions when I woke up alone."

"I wanted to get back to you before you woke up, dear. We are going to have our own New Year's eve supper, but before we do I want"—

Gathering her close into his arms, Jack kissed her tenderly and hungrily.

"That was it, Jack. And now," catching his hand and drawing him into the dining room, "this will be so much nicer than any old Williams affair."

GRANT'S ORDERLY DIES AT DAYTON

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 26.—Word was received here last night of the death in the National soldiers' home at Dayton, Ohio, last night of Captain Wm. F. Roberts, who served as orderly to Generals U. S. Grant and George G. Meade during the civil war. Captain Roberts was 68 years old, and was formerly a business man here. He served as orderly to General Meade during the Gettysburg campaign and was assigned to the same position with General Grant when the latter took command of the Army of the Potomac. He was present at Appomatox as General Grant's orderly. Three horses were shot from under Captain Roberts at Petersburg and a Bible in his pocket saved his life during the same conflict.

FOUR INVESTIGATIONS

children. The other theory that the cry of fire originated within the hall was substantiated yesterday by Matt Saari, a striker, who lost his son in the disaster. He declared the cry came from a group of men and women toward the front of the hall.

A 14-year-old girl who died yesterday brought the official revised list of dead up to 72. All have now been identified. Five injured are in the hospitals, all of whom, it is said, will live. Three little girls in the Calumet and Hecla hospital were able to be up and about and they romped around the Christmas tree set up for the patients of the hospital, unaware of the fate which had overtaken some of their brothers and sisters and the father of one of them. A boy of 7 or 8 years of age who was taken to one of the morgues showed signs of life soon after, but no restoratives and no physicians were immediately available and death ensued. One couple entered the town hall where all the bodies have been gathered to look for their missing child. Their hopes ran high when they had looked at 70 of the bodies and failed to find their loved one, but the last body they viewed, the seventy-first, was that of the missing one.

Members of the Calumet fire department relate many instances of heroic attempts to rescue the panic-stricken people in the hall. Patrick Ryan arrived on the scene a few minutes after the crush occurred at the foot of the stairway. He estimated there were about 700 piled on top of each other when he reached the entrance of the building. The pile of crushed and smothering humanity reached to about half the height of the stairway. They were wedged in so tightly it was impossible to extricate any from the foot of the stairs.

A boy of about 6 caught hold of Mr. Ryan's hands and begged to be rescued. The fireman succeeded in pulling the boy partially out, but he was unable to extricate the little fellow's legs. The human mass kept pressing down and it was impossible to save the boy, whose life was soon snuffed out. A girl of 8 or 9 grasped the hands of Angelo Curto, another fireman, kissed them and implored him to save her. He made a heroic attempt to pull her out, but the crush was so great he was compelled to give up the attempt and she perished.

Mrs. A. Niemela, one of the victims, was suffocated while standing up. John Burrill, a fireman who witnessed her death, took a 6-months-old infant from her arms and carried it to safety. Leonard Willman, a fireman, pushed his way into the stairway and took out a crying boy of 6 uninjured. Near him his mother and sister lay dead. His 7-year-old brother was taken out later. An 11-year-old boy rescued his brother of 9 by carrying him down a ladder. There were other similar rescues.

A child buried from the front of the building was caught by a spectator. Chief Trudell of the fire department, caught another child thrown out of a window by a frantic father. John Saari killed his boy of 8 by falling on him and he too perished. Scores escaped by passing from a small rear balcony to the balcony of an adjoining house.

President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners received a message from Governor Ferris yesterday stating he was at his command for rendering all possible assistance to those stricken by the disaster.

SECRETARY WILSON SENDS AID.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Dec. 26.—Secretary of Labor Wilson today ordered John B. Densmore, solicitor of the department, to Calumet, Mich., to render any assistance possible in settling the copper strike situation. The Christmas eve tragedy, in which 72 lives were lost, the secretary said he thought was a matter for state investigation.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION IS UP TO PRESIDENT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Dec. 26.—The request to President Wilson by Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners for a federal investigation of circumstances surrounding the "fire" horror at Calumet, Mich., was forwarded today to the president at Pass Christian, Miss., by Secretary Tumulty.

BLAZE ON TREE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Miss Grace McArron, of Calumet, Mich., arrived in Chicago from her home today and said she knew positively that the story of the man coming to the head of the stairs and shouting "fire," which resulted in the death of more than seventy persons who were trampled to death, was not true.

"The alarm was given right in the hall," said Miss McArron. "A little blaze on the Christmas tree and some one in the hall cried "fire." Then there was a rush made for the doors."

Miss McArron was a former proof reader in the Michigan senate and is now a stenographer for the Houghton county grand jury investigating the copper miners strike. She is on her way to Lansing to see the Michigan attorney general in connection with the grand jury work.

HAS $20,000 FUND.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 26.—The citizens committee which met all night, now has $20,000 in its hands, all donated by people of Calumet. In Houghton a large sum has been raised and donations are coming in from all parts of the district. The citizens committee is inviting donations from outside the copper country.

FUNERALS SUNDAY.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 26.—Tentative arrangements of the Calumet local of the Western Federation of Miners provide for the funeral of victims to be held Sunday afternoon, each nationality holding separate services.

Federation officials report that contributions are still pouring in from organized labor bodies in all parts of the country. The Federation insists that it will bury its own dead and look after the families of the bereaved, paying all the expenses.

MRS. C. R. APPLEGATE

Tells Mothers What To Do for Delicate Children.

"My little boy has been rather delicate for a long time. He was always very pale and his appetite was poor. Several people recommended 'Vinol.' I gave it to him and he took it willingly, as the taste is delicious. In a short time I noticed a great improvement in his appetite. He soon had more color in his cheeks. He is now well like other children and romps about every afternoon after school. I am so happy with what Vinol did for my little boy, that I want every mother to know about it."—Mrs. C. R. Applegate, Dayton, Ohio.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS GALA EVENT FOR NEW YEAR'S DAY

Plans are fully completed for New Year's day celebration at the Y. M. C. A. From 9:30 to 11 o'clock newsboys and other boys not members of the association, between the age of 10 and 15 years will be allowed the floor, bath and swimming privileges. The lunch counter will be running and turkey sandwiches will be a specialty. In the afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock there will be moving pictures in the auditorium and orchestra music in the men's room. At 2:30 there will be mass dumb-bell drill in the gym. At 2:45 elementary tumbling, and at 3 o'clock mass drills and marching. This exhibition will be given by the students, intermediates and juniors. In the evening the orchestra will play from 7 to 9. Moving pictures will again be shown in the auditorium and there will be a basketball game between the association team and an outside team. This game will be free to all. The members of the association have been urged to assist in extending the invitation to non-members. This day is especially set aside to show our interest in outsiders. "Others" might well be the motto. The two moving picture reels are entitled "Yellowstone National Park" and "Through Western Montana," and are furnished to the association gratis through the courtesy of the Northern Pacific Railway company.

Obituary

Henry Arensberg.

Henry Arensberg, aged 77 years and 4 months, died Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock, in his residence, 184 Boylesion street, after an illness from which he suffered for ten years. The funeral service will be conducted in the home by Rev. G. Bonhon Schmidt, and the body will be shipped to the former home of the deceased, Pittsburg, for interment.

Mr. Arensberg had been a resident of Newark for seventeen years, coming here from Pittsburg. He was a member of Local No. 30, Flint Glass Workers, and held membership in St. Paul's English Lutheran church. He served throughout the Civil war as a member of company G, Fourteenth Infantry, Pennsylvania Cavalry.

The widow and the following children survive: Harry Arensberg, Wing street, Newark; Mrs. Sadi Weil, Utica, Ohio; Mrs. H. G. Williams, living in Pittsburg; Mrs. E. G. Fey, Cleveland; Mrs. John Maurer, and John and Edward Arensberg, residing in the home in Boylesion street.

Funeral of Mrs. Havens.

The funeral of Mrs. George W. Havens will be held Sunday at 1:30 o'clock at the residence, south of town, and burial made in Cedar Hill cemetery. Friends of the family invited.

Mr. Lippincott's Funeral.

The funeral of Thomas Lippincott, who died Wednesday morning was held Friday afternoon at his late home, Rev. L. C. Sparks officiating. The I. O. O. F. of which the deceased was a member assisted in the services which were largely attended. Interment was made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

NINE HOURS OF SLEEP PART OF VACATION PLAN

President Wilson Maps Out Program For Each Day of His Winter Rest.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Pass Christian, Miss., Dec. 26.—President Wilson today mapped out a program of recreation for his visit here. He will sleep at least nine hours each night, the quota he has hoped to get, but often has missed.

While the president will do little of the work, there are at present two things uppermost in his mind—the selection of members of the federal reserve board and the writing of a special address to congress on the relations of the government to "big business" and the trusts.

Of the choice of members of the board which will put into operation the new currency system, there is little possibility that the president finally will decide on any individuals while he is here.

The president probably will make a rough draft of his anti-trust address while here and later submit it to leaders in the campaign. Injection into the trust situation of what the administration regards as a growing desire on the part of the business men to co-operate with the government in re-organizing their companies to conform with the Sherman law it is virtually certain will be dwelt on by the president.

UTICA REVIVAL NETS 400 CONVERTS

The revival services which Evangelist Ira Hicks has been conducting in Utica for the last four weeks have been brought to a close. During that time 400 converts have confessed their faith. The attendance at all of the services has been very large, it being necessary to enlarge the original tabernacle. Evangelist Hicks has retained Lloyd Rose, as a personal worker and Orr A. Cheek as chorister.

THIRTEEN LICENSES ARE ISSUED FOR CHRISTMAS WEDDINGS

The average divorce rate doesn't seem to be increasing, despite the fact that Licking county marriage license records show thirteen as a popular figure for the holiday season. There was just that number of licenses issued in probate court, Wednesday. Last year thirteen licenses were issued December 23, and none on December 24. There were eleven issued in Muskingum county Wednesday.

One belated couple anxious to have the ceremony performed on Christmas day, got Judge Robbins Hunter on the telephone, and he agreed to come to his office and issue the license, even though it deprived him of nearly an hour of his Christmas at home and caused him to forget his severe cold and brave the elements. The license was issued to Elmer Bagent, 46, yardman employed at the American Bottle plant, and May Ranie Randles, 41, of Newark. Rev. Lewis P. Franklin, of Trinity Episcopal church, performed the ceremony.

Other licenses issued Wednesday and Friday were to:

Oscar M. Arnold, 24, telephone engineer, New York City, and Margaret K. McKibben, Granville. Rev. C. J. Rose to officiate.

George W. Rugg, 69, furniture clerk, and Rhoda A. Anderson, 58, Newark. Rev. L. C. Sparks to officiate.

Walter R. Frye, 21, metal spinner, Newark, and Elizabeth Van Atta, 20, bookkeeper, Newark. Rev. George B. Schmidtt to officiate.

Arthur M. Wilson, 25, apprentice moulder, Newark, and Ella Mason, 26, Newark. Rev. W. D. Ward to officiate.

Jesse Samuel Miller, 24, glassworker, Newark, and F. Marie Alexander, 20, Newark. Rev. Charles Laughlin to officiate.

Peter Bumiac, 25, laborer, Newark, and Katie Bosiancic, 23, cigar worker, Newark.

Roy Wynwood Beal, 37, farmer, Howard, O., and Augusta C. Stauch, 38, clerk, Newark.

William A. Burdette, 22, farmer, Hebron, and Elizabeth C. Boyer, 17, Kirkersville.

Ralph R. Hart, 22, farmer, Camden, O., and Nellie Gorsuch Yost, 22, school teacher, Newark. Rev. Don Tullis to officiate.

John Wesley Hanawalt, 26, farmer, Alexandria, and Gem Elberta Taylor, 22, school teacher, Alexandria.

Joseph W. Wright, 20, farmer, Johnstown, and Catherine A. Greene 18, Johnstown. Rev. J. W. Blair to officiate.

SHELTER HOUSE BLOWN DOWN; 20 ARE HURT

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26.—Several persons were injured and a score were buried in wreckage this morning, when a shelter house on Ontario street, on the southwest corner of the public square, was blown down by high winds which accompanied the snow storm here. The shelter house was crowded with persons waiting for street car when the crash came. The walls fell inward and men, women and children were struck by timbers and broken glass. None of the victims was fatally hurt. The high winds also broke several plate glass windows in the business district.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—Edward McQuade, aged 19, a brakeman, was run down by his own engine here early today. He threw a switch for the engine and failed to get off the tracks soon enough. The body was decapitated.

J. L. ZIMMERMAN SEEKS NOMINATION AS OHIO SENATOR

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—John L. Zimmerman of Springfield, an attorney, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator next fall, according to a statement made today by several friends to whom he talked here several days ago. He was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1906, when John M. Pattison was nominated and elected.

John J. Lentz, Columbus attorney, former congressman, also is being mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

PRESIDENT DIRECTS FIGHTING OF BLAZE IN MISSISSIPPI HOME

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Gulfport, Miss., Dec. 26.—President Wilson discovered the home of Mrs. J. H. Neville on fire here today and while he directed two chauffeurs and two secret service men how to extinguish the blaze, he allayed Mrs. Neville's fears. The president was returning to Pass Christian from a golf course and was riding in the front seat of an automobile when he saw smoke coming out of the roof of the Neville home.

He quickly alighted from the car and went into the house where he encountered Mrs. Neville.

"Your house is on fire but do not be alarmed. These gentlemen here will put it out if you will show them how to get to the attic," said President Wilson to Mrs. Neville.

While the two secret service men and the two chauffeurs rushed upstairs, Mr. Wilson quieted Mrs. Neville and assured her she was in no danger and that her home would not be destroyed.

The blaze, which was in the roof, had not gained great headway and was easily put out by the use of the fire extinguishers carried on the white house automobile.

The Nevills home is one of the prettiest on the gulf coast and Judge Neville is one of the towns' most prominent citizens. He arrived just as President Wilson was leaving. He thanked the president warmly.

NEWARK GIRL AT THE ORPHEUM

Miss Eva Kerns, a Newark girl, who made her debut as an actress several years ago, is the star of the musical comedy, "The Ogrinial Happy Youngsters" that is playing at the Orpheum theatre the last half of this week.

Dancing, popular songs, and good wholesome fun pleased the audiences and won for the actors much applause. The scene is laid in a school house and all the comic situations of school life are depicted in an interesting manner. Jack McInnne is the bad boy who keeps the audience in an uproar.

The company has recently finished an engagement on the Keith circuit.

A fellow shouldn't have any difficulty in getting along when he is never short.

SEARCH ALL NIGHT; FIND MAN DROWNED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Toledo, O., Dec. 26.—After relatives and friends had searched unsuccessfully for him all night, Frank Blaszcki, 31, a laborer at the C., H. and D. railroad roundhouse, was found drowned this morning in ash pit 200 feet south of the roundhouse. The pit contains 12 feet of water. It is thought that he fell into the pit while on his way home. Coroner Henzler rendered a verdict of accidental drowning.

BLIZZARD RAGES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 26.—A blizzard which raged all night and continued with less violence this morning paralyzed the traffic [illegible] today. Thousands of workers were forced to walk to their shops. Railroad trains entering Rochester were very late. Reports from the country say roads are impassable on account of snow.
